

ALL EXEMPTION CASES TAKEN UP IN SECRET HERE

No Personal Appeals Will Be Heard By Board Says Chairman

RESULTS ARE WANTED

Names to Be Certified and Turned Over to the State Adjutant

Disturbed men and their relatives who are planning to come to Des Moines and appear before the district exemption board to show cause for exemption, might just as well stay at home and save their railroad fare.

The first railroad rule laid down by N. D. Ely, chairman of the board, is that board members will see no interested parties regarding any exemption.

"This rule applies to lawyers as well as friends and relatives. No attorneys will be seen by the board, nor will the board listen to any arguments."

Results Wanted

"What the government expects of us is results," said Chairman Ely, "and we cannot get results if we are to be subjected to constant interruption."

"We would not get an army certified in a year," added William Cochrane, the manufacturers' representative on the board, "if we have to listen to the argument of every interested party who wanted to appear before the board."

Pass on Appeals

The board met at 10 a. m. Friday in the speaker's room in the State House, and began its preliminary work of passing on appeals from the local boards of the state.

In addition to appeals, the board will advise when a contractor's occupation entitles him to exemption. No blanket exemption on any one class of workers will be made. This the board made clear at its first meeting.

"If we should exempt farmers or mechanics," said Chairman Ely, "men in every other vocation would demand exemption also, and in the end, we would have no one in the army except bankers."

Red Tape Hinders Work

In order that the work of the board may not be delayed, Chairman Ely wired Brigadier General Crowder Friday morning, urging that immediate action be taken to confirm the appointment of the board members by Governor Harding to succeed Clarence Cox Epps, who has been given a commission in the second officers' reserve corps at Ft. Riley, Utah. This appointment is made, the board will be without a chairman.

Governmental red tape is proving somewhat of a handicap to the board, Chairman Ely has twice wired the War Department for information necessary to their work, and instead of receiving the information wanted, he was told in one case that his communication should have come through the governor, and in the other that it should have come through the attorney general.

Index All Names

While the board was holding its first session, a corps of stenographers was busy indexing alphabetically the names of all men certified by the local boards. Following each name on the card will be the man's serial number, and when the work is completed the board will be supplied with a double cross index which will enable the board to easily find any name desired.

As fast as the names are passed on, they will be certified to Adjutant General Logan, who will certify them back to their local boards, who in turn will notify the drafted men that they have been certified for service. Should the local boards give, they might then hold back for the second time each man in certain occupations, such as farming.

Up to noon, Friday, no men had been certified by the district board, the time being taken up with preliminary work, but a list of the names certified each day will be given out as soon as possible.

NOT ENOUGH FOOD CARDS FOR IOWA HOUSEWIVES

The lack of supplying food place cards to all the married women of the state is proving a greater task than was anticipated, according to I. J. Metcalf, secretary of the State Defense Council.

Polk has the largest number of married women, 23,124. Lynn comes next with 16,330. The counties having the fewest are Osceola with 1588 and Dickinson with 1941.

BOND SALE WAR IS REOPENED AT COUNCIL MEET

Mayor Meets With Partial Success in Fight on Big Sale

CONTRACT NOT VALID

Legal Dept. Asked to Pass on Legality of the North-st Bridge

Mayor MacVicar's attempt to have rescinded the sale of $227,000 municipal bonds of the city of Des Moines, was revived at council meeting Friday morning, and despite many rebuffs and rebounds, met with partial success.

Rules were suspended on passage of ordinances relating to the sale of three issues, but when the one relating to the North-st bridge came to vote, MacVicar was joined by Lloyd in opposition, and the matter was laid over until Monday, the date for the third and final reading before passage.

To Pass on Contract

In the meantime the legal department will pass on the legality of the contract between the city and William Horrabin, and report Monday.

MacVicar's filibuster was inaugurated shortly after the council convened, and continued unabated for over two hours.

He again charged the city to be bound by no valid contract with Dolger, Mosser and Willman for the sale of the $227,000 issue, and reiterated his assertions made Wednesday that there was a combination of bond holders against the city.

During the course of his filibuster, the mayor was met with many caustic questions and inquiries from other members of the council.

"Go Ahead, You're Boss"

Councilman Wontaga objected strenuously against the reopening of the question, but when assured by MacVicar the matter was to be reopened, subsided into silence with "Go ahead, you're the boss here."

During the course of the debate, the matter of the North-st bridge contract was reopened and brought forth some heated words between the mayor and Councilman Fairweather.

"You are intimidating there are a lot of people in on this bridge deal," Fairweather stated.

Not Lowest Bid

"Yes, and I may do something soon besides intimate," MacVicar replied.

He then went on to state William Horrabin Co.'s bid was not the lowest under the plans accepted and demanded to know why the contract was amended to make this company's the lowest.

City Engineer Kastberg was then brought before the council and asked to explain the amendment of original bid.

He stated a misunderstanding of the plans brought this about, and admitted Horrabin was not the low bidder without the amendment attached to his contract.

Byers is Called

Corporation Counsel Byers was then called and instructed to go over the "peculiar contract," so termed by the mayor, and report to the council on whether the city had the proper protection of its terms.

Councilman Dudd, absent from the last meeting while the bond issue was under discussion, stated he wished to see the city get the best price possible for the near million dollar issue and suggested the matter be reopened as the mayor suggested.

Says Contract Valid

He was informed by Councilman Fairweather, however, that a valid contract existed for the sale, and the bonds could not be placed on the market for less than 5%.

On the motion to suspend the rules, Dudd then assented on all but the North-st bridge issue, which he declared he would like to see cleared up by the legal department before any definite action was taken.

The holding over of this issue practically holds up the entire sale as the issues were bought in a bulk by Bolger, Mosser and Willman.

NO MONEY TO PAY NEW COPS

Looking for Way to Get Cash for Coppers

Methods of raising money for the payment of the additional policemen authorized to be placed on the Des Moines force, the city legal department has yet no solution to offer.

If the city gets this additional number of policemen, it is feared, according to opinions expressed about the City Hall, firemen will not get their boost in salary recently authorized.

No money will be available in the general fund to pay the new coppers until April 1, 1918, and should the money be taken from funds now on hand there will be little left to pay the firemen's additional pay.

The three mill additional levy authorized last winter by the legislature for fire and police purposes will "go to the dogs" about enough to let Des Moines "make up" the deficit, it is said.

WAR INSURANCE BILL APPROVED BY PRESIDENT

Measure Will Go Before House and Senate for Debate

INSURANCE FOR ALL

Bill Will Cost the Govt. $556,000,000 the First Two Years

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Bearing the president's stamp of approval and Secretary McAdoo's plea that it be made law in justice to America's fighting men and their families, the long expected war compensation, indemnity and insurance bill was introduced in both houses of Congress today.

It represents America's first attempt to be forthcoming in providing for those whose homes are wrecked by war.

Its outstanding feature is organization of insurance for every fighting man and nurse at $8 a year for $1000 worth, up to $20,000. Drafted by international experts under Secretary McAdoo's direction, the proposed law is a substitute for the civil war pension system.

It will cost the government $556,000,000 the first two years, divided thus:

Family allowance	First yr.	Second yr.
Compensation for total disability	$141,000,000	$189,000,000
Compensation for partial disability	3,700,000	22,000,000
Compensation for total disability	5,250,000	35,000,000
Compensation for partial disability	2,200,000	21,000,000
Death indemnity	23,000,000	112,500,000
Totals	$172,150,000	$380,500,000

Why It's Possible

The $10,000 worth of insurance for $80 a year compared with standard rates of about $20 a year for $10,000 for a man of 27, is possible because the government doesn't require high priced salesmen, advertising and offices.

The bill provides for the assignment of part of each man's pay to his family, for a separation allowance to be paid by the government, for a graduated scale of payments for total or partial disability, for a death indemnity and for the insurance.

If a man fails to make application for insurance on the $7.50 per $1000 plan and is killed, the government presumes him to have made application for a $4000 policy and pays his widow or his estate that amount.

Separation Support

For separation support of dependents the bill provides that 45% of the enlisted man's $23 a month go to his wife. The government's share are two children, gives the wife $22.50 in addition, making the minimum income $44.50. Five dollars additional is allotted for each additional child. The father may give more than $15 from his pay if he wishes.

If the man's father or his mother are his dependents and he gives $5 a month of his pay for that, the government gives $10. Thus a private with a wife, three children and a mother dependent would receive $40 a month or if he needed a nurse, $20 more.

No Retirement Pay

The bill provides that a man without dependents or who does not allot half of his pay, may be compelled by the government to deposit up to half his pay with the government at 4 per cent increase, compounded semi-annually. If total disability results from injury or disease, compensation runs from a minimum of $40 to a maximum of $75 a month for enlisted men and up to $200 a month for higher officers. An officer can't receive this disability allowance if he receives retirement pay.

If a man loses both legs and both arms in battle, he would receive $40 a month or if he needed a nurse, $20 more.

If he had a dependent mother, he would get $10 more.

If he later married, he would get $15 more, and for each of the first two children by the marriage $10 more, or $105.

He would be fitted with artificial arms and legs.

Pay Funeral Expense

If he wanted to start a store, he could collect a $1000 advance on his compensation to be paid back at the rate of $20 a month.

If a man dies, his funeral expenses, not to exceed $100, will be paid. If he leaves his wife, two children and his mother, they get $50 a month in (Turn to Page 12, Column 2)
