CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

NEW YORK (AP)—The CIO went ahead Thursday with plans for a quick merger with AFL after rejecting a dunning note from John L. Lewis for alleged past-due debts.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, an independent labor organization, sent his prospective merger, not a party to the payment demand on the eve of separate AFL and CIO conventions called to ratify the amalgamation.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Lewis is a maverick in the union movement who in the past has been a leader in both AFL and CIO. Wednesday night he demanded that the CIO, before any merger action, pay up $1,065,000 which he claimed to be the balance owed the UMW from early CIO organizing days. He headed the CIO at that time.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

"Three Brass Balls." "Why, he's got the second biggest bank in Washington and wants us to help him make it the biggest," James E. Carey, a CIO leader, told a reporter. "Lewis has got three brass balls hanging outside his office."

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Lewis, whose rich union reportedly controls the National bank of Washington, wrote Carey that the UMW advanced the CIO approximately $7,250,000 in late Thirties and $1,865,000 in 1944 in "valid loans."

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO when Lewis was its president, and still holder of that office, fired back a reply telling Lewis: "The CIO owes you no money."

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Where Lewis had written that the CIO is being "liquidated" by merging with the larger AFL, Carey flatly denied that too.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

"You have achieved," Carey wrote, "the momentary ripple of publicity which you sought to relieve the burden of your isolation from the democratic labor movement."

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Carey also sent back, by the same UMW messenger who delivered Lewis' note, a copy of a CIO pamphlet reviewing the 20-year story of the CIO. It gives Lewis full credit for forming the CIO and helping organize its nucleus in the steel and auto industries.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

"Rope of Sand." Lewis, 75, has been left completely out of merger plans. He has criticized the prospective joining of the two labor groups into a single 16-million-member federation as "a rope of sand" that could not last.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

He led a group of unions, including the UMW, out of the AFL in 1935 to found the CIO. Then he quit the CIO in 1940 and went back to the AFL, only to leave that group again in 1947.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Lewis aides refused to say whether the UMW planned any legal recovery action if the CIO refused to come across with the payment.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Fire Chief Jesse Hunter said he feels the "entire fire service of our state will benefit" from Herron's appointment. "I think he's the best man available in the state of Iowa to fill this position," Hunter said.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

Thanking the council for past cooperation, Herron said, "I'm going to exert every effort to bring about a realization of your confidence in me when I take this new job."

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

The council's leave-of-absence resolution covered several points protecting Herron's Civil Service status on the Cedar Rapids department.

CIO Rejects Dunning Note From John L.

He is entitled to return as an assistant chief at the conclusion of his fire marshal duties, the council ruled. Herron has 4 1/2 years of service left and 10 years of age to go before qualifying for a pension under the local system. His fire marshal's service will not count in meeting these requirements.

Breakin at Delhi Bank Nets Burglar Very Little Loot

MANCHESTER—One or more burglars broke into the Delhi Savings bank Wednesday night and got away with a grand total of 75 cents.

The bank was open for business as usual Thursday morning, operating on money from the safe. Small change which was stored in the vault was not available for use, however. Opening of the vault awaited the arrival of a repairman.

Entrance to the bank was gained through a manhole leading to the bank's old coal bin. From the bin, the burglar or burglars went through a door into the cellar beneath the bank. Entrance to the bank was gained by smashing a cellar door.
