REPORT MANY TAGS FAULTY, MISMATCHED

No Licenses for 400 At Iowa City

Several Iowa counties are running out of new automobile license plates and many of the plates they do receive are defective.

County officials said plates have mismatched numbers, tags stamped with the wrong year, and in some cases, the numbers stamped out, leaving holes in the tags.

400 Turned Away

At Iowa City, Johnson County Treasurer Donald J. Krall said about 400 citizens were turned away Wednesday because the State Men's Reformatory at Anamosa failed to deliver the new tags.

Krall said "we had just enough plates for Tuesday." He said Anamosa officials told him Johnson County was ninth on the list of counties needing more license plates.

"They told me they had the plates there but didn't have transportation," he said. "I offered to send a county truck to get the plates, and then they said the plates were made up, but not painted."

Officials at the Reformatory said plates were delivered Wednesday to Johnson County. Krall later confirmed that 1,000 plates had been delivered Wednesday and that another 2,000 to 3,000 were expected Friday.

Last year, Johnson County distributed 22,000 auto license plates. By Tuesday night, Krall said, 12,000 plates had been issued.

"Get Lot of Guff"

Krall said about 400 persons turned away weren't happy. "We get a lot of guff from people," he said.

A lot of persons have brought plates back because the numbers have been punched out—leaving holes in the plates, Krall said.

Krall mused: "What we need is a higher quality of convicts."

Earl Sturdevant, assistant director of corrections said Wednesday that while the number of tags needed each year has increased, the Public Safety Department has had no increase in funds to pay for them. To get more tags for the same money this year, thickness was reduced from .025 to .019 inch.

Charles Haugh, warden of the reformatory, said Wednesday there is always imperfection in mass production.

He cited the new lightweight metal as the main difficulty in the stamping and painting. He said new equipment has been ordered.

He said about 15,000 to 17,000

Test Fluoridated Vitamins on Tots

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Daily doses of fluoridated vitamins reduce tooth decay in children at least as well as fluoridated water, three Indiana University scientists report in the Journal of Dentistry for Children.

The researchers report that fluoridated vitamins were fed to 218 pre-school children while untreated vitamins were given to the same number of children of the same age. The test was run in Bloomington, Ind., where the water supply is not fluoridated.

At the end of three years, the scientists found, the children receiving fluorides in their vitamins had 63 per cent fewer cavities in their temporary teeth and 45 per cent fewer cavities in their permanent teeth than the children not getting fluoridated vitamins.

The tests were conducted by Dr. Joseph C. Muhler, Dr. David K. Hennon and George K. Stookey.

2 Boys Find Body of Man Missing Here

Donald Nervig Found 5 Miles Away

By David Eastman

A body tentatively identified as that of a Des Moines man who disappeared Dec. 14 was found Wednesday about 5 miles north of Des Moines by two youngsters on their way home from sledding.

Authorities said the body was probably that of Donald Amos Nervig, 52, of 1331 Mattern ave.

The body was found in a wooded gully between N. W. Sixth drive and N. W. Sixteenth street, near where the two roads meet. The location is about a mile north of the Saylorville area and 2 miles southwest of Ankeny.

Michael Dale Howell, 13, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Howell, 7720 N. W. Sixteenth st., and Stephen Lawrence Bacon, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bacon, 7725 N. W. Sixteenth st., told authorities they tripped on the snow-covered body as they were pulling their sleds up the gully, shortly after 5 p. m.

Polk County Medical Examiner Dr. Leo Luka and Sheriff Wilbur T. Hildreth said they would not speculate on the cause of death. An autopsy was scheduled for today.

Shoe Missing

The body was clad in brown work clothes. One shoe was missing. A brown tweed sports jacket was found along a fence next to N. W. Sixth drive, about 50 feet from where the body was found.

The words "Nervig and Avila" were sewn over one pocket in the work shirt. Nervig was co-owner of Nervig and Avila Speedometer & Electrical Service, 814 Keosauqua way.

Nervig reportedly was last seen about 9:15 p. m. Dec. 14

Going 'From A to Z' To Seek Peace

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk complained Wednesday of what he called "a curious double standard" applied to U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam and to Communist bombs planted in South Viet Nam.

Appearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rusk said some observers say resumption of U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam will somehow close the door to peace. Then he added:

"But what about the bombings in South Viet Nam all these years?"

In spite of these South Viet Nam bombings—and he said one of them blew up a bus and

URGES ENDING LULL

NEW YORK, N. Y. (AP)—Gen. Maxwell Taylor said Wednesday the reasons for continuing the pause in bombing North Viet Nam are exhausted.

Taylor, former U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam and now a part-time consultant to President Johnson, said he felt the bombing pause was justified "in spite of the obvious military disadvantages."

"We have shown friends and foes the sincerity of our peaceful purposes," he said at a news conference. "But the reasons for continuing it are exhausted."

Peace Efforts

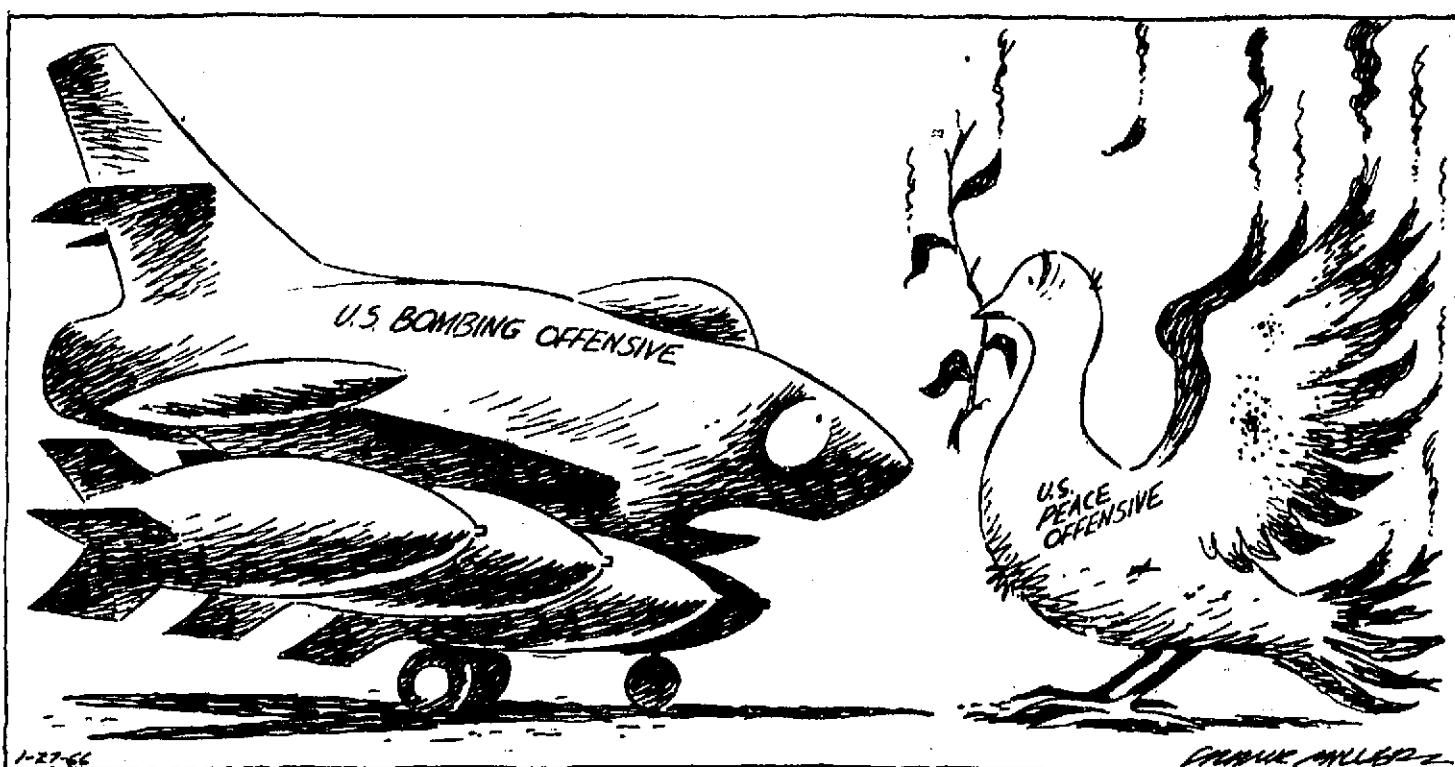

He declined to answer direct questions on resumption of U. S. bombing, but said the United States has carried out peace efforts "from A to Z and almost through Z" during the last 34 days of the bombing pause.

There has been no indication from Hanoi that the Communists "are prepared to walk through that door or even walk up to it and peek around the corner to see what is on the other side," Rusk said.

ASK RECEIVER TO OPERATE TAMA PACK

5 Stockholders in Court Action

By Tom Clark
(The Register's Financial Editor)

TOLEDO, IA.—A suit by five stockholders seeking a temporary injunction against certain alleged planned acquisitions by Tama Packing Co. and seeking appointment of a temporary receiver for the firm has been filed in Tama County District Court here.

Judge John W. Tobin has set a hearing on the plea for next Tuesday. Plaintiffs in the suit, who said they are filing for themselves and "all stockholders," are Tom Zimmerman and Ronald Kenyon, Des Moines; Charles Kramer and Howard F. Swanson, Toledo; and H. W. Ovesen, Wilton Junction.

Stock Sale

They charge the company, which sold $4 million of stock to Iowans a year ago to establish a cattle slaughter facility at Tama, has "misapplied and diverted" substantial sums of corporation funds "for purposes other than those stated" at the time the stock was sold.

Eugene Brown, president of Tama Packing Co., described the petitioners as "malcontents" and said they are "two disgruntled former employees and three disgruntled shareholders."

Brown said Tama Packing Co. already has entered the meat packing business with an Omaha plant that did $1.2 million in business in its first month of operation, which was December.

He said the company has opened a breaking plant at Greenville, S. C., and has a plant "now nearing completion at Tama."

The Tama plant will be "one of the most modern and efficient meat packing facilities in the United States," Brown said.

Brown said the company took "our first step in diversification with the acquisition of a tremendously promising and already successful firm producing fertilizers, plant foods, plant food applicators and detergents."

"Every move we have made has been made with cautious consideration for and attention to one thing and one thing only—the success of this company and the financial gain for all who have invested."

2-Inch Snow, Washington Closes Early

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Faced with a heavy snow warning, the government Wednesday ordered its employees released one hour early to make it easier for them to get home.

The order came at mid-afternoon after 2 inches of snow had fallen. Another 2 inches fell later.

14-State Area

The snowstorm covered a 14-state area from northern Georgia to southern New England. The storm moved up the Eastern coastline while gale warnings flew from Savannah, Ga., to Cape May, N. J.

Roanoke, Va., was paralyzed with 15 inches of snow, with 5 inches falling in six hours. Thirteen inches fell in Richmond.

Schools were closed across Virginia Wednesday and probably will be closed today. Many workers were sent home early in cities. Most stores closed in mid-afternoon.

North Carolina was also hit hard by the storm. Greensboro had 10 inches of snow and Raleigh Durham Airport had 9 inches. In Maryland, Baltimore had 5 inches.

A sheet of ice more than an inch thick covered streets in Gainesville, Ga., and the city of 25,000 was practically immobilized.

26 Below in Syracuse
Update New Yorkers started the day in numbing cold, with temperatures that included 37 below zero in Wanakena, 27 in Massena, and 26 in Syracuse.

In the West, gale warnings were posted for the central California coast north to Washington. Travelers warnings were issued for the California mountains because of heavy snow and gale winds.

COLD RETURNS

A new surge of cold air Wednesday night followed the warmest weather Des Moines had in 10 days.

Biting winds and light snow accompanied the cold air. The snow was expected to continue overnight and today and the cold weather should last through tonight.

The cold wave moved into Des Moines about 7:30 p. m., dropped temperatures six degrees to 17 within 30 minutes, then sent them to 5 early today.

The day's high was 23, after a morning low of 7.

Other highs in Iowa ranged from 31 at Council Bluffs and 30 at Lamoni and Burlington to 14 at Spencer.

Temperatures dropped throughout the state as the cold wave hit northwestern counties in mid-afternoon and moved southeastward.

JOHNSON GROUP BUYS TV FIRM

AUSTIN, TEX. (AP)—Texas Broadcasting Co., owned by President Johnson's family business interests, has bought half the common stock of Capital Cable Co., operator of an Austin community antenna system.

The purchase was announced by Morris Roberts, president of Capital Cable, and Paul Bolton, vice-president and associate general manager of Texas Broadcasting.

Texas Broadcasting Co. operates station KTBC-TV, for years the only one in Austin. The cable firm has operated here three years.

Roberts and Bolton said Texas Broadcasting exercised an option it obtained in 1957 for purchase of 50 per cent of Capital Cable's common stock.

"Operations to date resulted in substantial losses (to Capital Cable) and the loss for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1965, approximated $370,000. The purchase price of the interest purchased was $485,000 and the assumption of one-half of a stockholder guaranteed indebtedness of approximately $1.5 million," the announcement said.

The announcement said that after the stock sale, Roberts was elected president of Capital Cable; G. R. Morrell, vice-president, and Donald S. Thomas, secretary-treasurer. Thomas has served on a number of occasions as attorney for the Johnson family, particularly for its television interests.

When Mr. Johnson became president, the family's interests were placed in the hands of trustees for the duration of his tenure in the White House.

Probe G. I. Use of Dope In Viet Nam; 4 Charged

AN KHE, SOUTH VIET NAM—Four soldiers of the U. S. 1st Cavalry Division (Air Mobile) have been charged with illegally possessing narcotics, and 20 others are under investigation for the same offense.

Lt. Col. H. W. Uhlend of Yorktown Heights, N. Y., the division provost marshal, said Wednesday that he is conducting "an intensive investigation" of narcotics in the village of An Khe, which lies just outside the 1st Cavalry compound. An Khe is 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

Soldiers Barred
No members of the First Cavalry have been permitted to go into the village since Jan. 20.

The restriction was imposed initially for security reasons during the lunar new year holiday, and has been kept in force since, because of the traffic in narcotics and several other problems.

Although there were conflicting reports, it appears that most if not all of the servicemen who are under investigation are suspected of using marijuana.

Opium is also known to have been offered for sale, but sources said no addiction had been reported.

Marijuana is considered a non-addictive drug; opium causes addiction.

The situation first came to light when a military policeman found a soldier in a bar early this month with a fistful of crumpled, greenish-brown marijuana leaves.

After he was questioned, several of his friends also were charged with possessing narcotics.

Military policemen in subsequent raids seized two to 10

SALESMAN, 80, KILLED BY CAR

By Dick Spry

Simon Bernstein, 80, of 1507 Twenty-seventh st., a retired clothing salesman, was killed Wednesday night when he was struck by a car as he walked diagonally across the Forty-second street and University avenue intersection.

He suffered head injuries and was dead on arrival at Broadlawn Polk County Hospital.

Car Had Green Light

The Rev. Calvin Birchard, Loper, 51, of 827 Thirty-first st., told Accident Investigator Robert M. Albright that he didn't see Bernstein until his car struck the man.

Witnesses said the car had the green traffic light.

Earlier, a policeman had shouted a warning to Bernstein as he crossed the intersection diagonally to a drug store. He was struck while walking back across the busy intersection.

Harry Schatz, 737 Thirty-fourth st., whose daughter is married to a son of Bernstein, said he stopped his car at the northwest corner of Forty-second and University and Bernstein got out to go to the drug store for a cigar.

Schatz said he told Bernstein he would pick him up there.

Thrown 40 Feet

Bernstein was struck as he neared the crosswalk at the northwest corner. He was thrown about 40 feet. One of his overcoats was found 77 feet from the point of impact.

Patrolmen Nile R. Heather-shaw and Bill R. Ross both had happened to be at the intersection about the time Mr. Bernstein first crossed to the drug store.

Heathershaw said he shouted a warning to Bernstein to walk in the crosswalk, but that Bernstein didn't appear to hear him.

The body was taken to Hamilton Funeral Home.

Mr. Bernstein was a salesman for Hills department store before he retired. He also had been a clothing salesman for S and L Department Store and Younkens.

The Rev. Mr. Loper is listed in the city directory as a district superintendent for the Open Bible churches.

Calls Plates Worst in 13 Years license plates are being produced a day. He said 1966 production is nearing completion.

The reformatory produces about 1.8 million license plates for the State Department of Public Safety.

Polk County Superintendent of Motor Vehicles Francis Moetzel said he has been with the motor vehicles department for 25 years and "this is the worst year I've seen for mix-ups."

Moetzel said that in one box of plates for mobile homes alone he found "17 or 18 duplicate sets."

"One woman," Moetzel said, "told me about obscene language on her plates, but she was too embarrassed to tell me what it said."

Moetzel also reported many bad paint jobs on the plates and many sets with different numbers.

He said there was no shortage of plates in Polk County.

At Muscatine, Muscatine County Deputy Treasurer Robert O. Schmitt said his office was out of plates for about two hours Wednesday before a shipment arrived from Ames.

He said no one was turned away. The office took orders and will mail the plates. He said some people were a little perturbed when they were unable to receive their plates.

He said the county also ran out for a day last week because 1,000 sets of plates arrived with numbers duplicating plates already sent from the Reformatory.

Received 1,300

Schmitt said he received 1,300 sets Wednesday which will take care of the demand through Saturday.

The county usually sells about 12,000 sets up to the Feb. 1 deadline. The office had sold 9,662 through Wednesday morning.

At Clinton, Clinton County Treasurer Homer B. Hoskinson said, "We are down to a couple of hundred plates and if we don't get a shipment tomorrow (Thursday) we won't have enough to go around." Hoskinson said the county has been distributing from 300 to 500 plates daily.

Hoskinson also noted that some sets have had two different numbers, and the paint on some plates has been smeared. He said this is the first time since 1963, when he was elected, that plates have been disorderly or late in coming.

250 Defective

At Waterloo, Black Hawk County Treasurer Dewey S. Butterfield said he has received about 250 sets of defective auto license plates. He called this year's supply "the worst I've seen in my 13 years as county treasurer."

He said the paint jobs have been bad, paint is missing on some numbers, there are many sets of duplicate numbers—two sets with the same number—and some with missing numbers.

Some of the plates are punched so hard, he said, that the metal is cut.

Capitol Snow Scene

The Capitol, framed by sections of iron grille work, was blanketed by snow Wednesday as the first heavy storm of the winter swept the Washington, D. C., area. The grille work is part of a covered rest area on the Capital Plaza.

Treasurer Herbert Hanna said he has rejected close to 100 sets of plates. Some sets, he said, had different numbers, while two sets have sometimes had the same number.

The numerals pressed on some plates, he said, also have been "cracked and not fit for use."

At Adel, Dallas County Treasurer Murray Luther reported that on several occasions two sets of plates have had identical numbers. Other sets have had numbers that do not match, he said.

He said the county also has received plates that should have gone to other counties.

Officials in Perry said one Dallas County resident is driving a car with new tags, but with one dated 1965 and the other dated 1966, because they were delivered that way.

Jack Leverenz, deputy commissioner of public safety, said there are "definitely" more faulty plates being delivered to county treasurers than in recent years.

Joe Foss Misses Meeting in Iowa

OELWEIN, IA. (AP)—About 250 persons attended an Oelwein Chamber of Commerce dinner Wednesday night to hear a speech by American Football Commissioner Joe Foss but were sent home after a two-hour wait when Foss failed to show up.

Foss also was scheduled to appear for an interview on a Waterloo television station in the afternoon but he did not show up there either.

Sponsors of the events said they were unable to find Foss or an explanation for his absence.

when he left the car of a man he had met for the first time earlier in the evening.

Ronald Leroy Kyger, 28, of 2930 Tiffin ave., told authorities Nervig had gotten out of his car on Second avenue between Hoffman road and Broadway, near the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. plant, just north of the Des Moines city limits. The body was found about 5 miles from there.

Nervig was reported to have had heart trouble and an arthritic condition, and was unable to walk long distances.

Kyger told police he and Nervig had several drinks in the Executive Lounge, 605 Seventh st., then went to a restaurant in the Highland Park area to eat. After they left the restaurant, Kyger told authorities, there was an argument about Kyger's driving, and Nervig was let out of the car.

Traces of Blood

The body was frozen in ice in the bottom of the gully. Volunteers from the Saylor Township Fire Department used axes to free the body, which was taken to Dahlstrom's Funeral Home. Traces of blood were found in the ice while the volunteers were removing the body.

No search was made for the $340 Nervig was supposed to be carrying at the time he disappeared. Dr. Luka said ice on the body would have to melt before a search of the clothing could be made.

Charles Warren of 7390 N. W.

sixteenth st., on whose property the body was found, said residents of the area had done some searching along the road for Nervig shortly after he disappeared.

The body was about 200 feet from Warren's home, and about 50 feet from an old barn.

Children Skate Nearby

Warren said neighborhood children use the 20-foot-deep gully for sliding downstream from where the body was found, and skate where the little creek runs under N.W. Sixth drive, about 100 feet away.

Youngsters in the neighborhood said most of the time they pull their sleds along the road, rather than up the gully as did the Howell and Bacon youths.

Sheriff Hildreth said the body had been in the gully since before the freezing weather started earlier this month.

Several searches were conducted in the area where Nervig was reported to have disappeared. All the searches were made south of where the body was found.

Nervig was the father of three daughters, two at home and one married and in California.

Mrs. Nervig had offered a $500 reward for information leading to his safe return.

gress that a renewal of U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam was a foregone conclusion and that the only question was when President Johnson would issue the order.

(An Associated Press poll of senators found that, of 50 willing to take a position, 25 favored resumption and 25 opposed it.)

Asks Aid

Rusk appeared before the committee to ask for an emergency $415-million supplement for foreign aid for the current fiscal year, including $275 million for South Viet Nam.

The request for additional aid for South Viet Nam is in addition to about $5 billion extended since 1954.

President Johnson had key advisers in for lunch Wednesday to continue their discussions on Viet Nam, Presidential Press Secretary Bill Moyers reported.

McNamara, Bundy

Among those taking part were Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Undersecretary of State George Ball, Admiral William F. Raborn, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and McGeorge Bundy, presidential assistant for national security affairs.

Newsman asked Moyers about published reports of heavy infiltration of troops and supplies from the north into South Viet Nam.

Avoiding use of the word "heavy," Moyers replied:

"I have seen reports of continued infiltration and movement of supplies and from what I know I would consider them accurate."

Several Democratic senators were trying Wednesday to organize colleagues in both parties who oppose a resumption of bombing North Viet Nam.

The senators hope that if they can demonstrate to President Johnson their growing opposition, he may be persuaded to continue the lull in bombing until all possibilities of negotiation are exhausted.

The senators are Vance Hartke of Indiana, Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, Frank E. Moss of Utah, Quentin N. Burdick of North Dakota, Lee Metcalfe of Montana and George McGovern of South Dakota.

According to an informed source, the senators believe the President is being unduly influenced by advisers "already deeply committed to a course of action which has been unsuccessful in achieving its objectives in the past and threatens disaster in the future."

Develops Artificial Heart; Sees Its Use Within Month

WIREPHOTO (AP)

Dr. Michael D. DeBakey of Baylor University Medical Center says a substitute heart, such as the one he's showing, will be ready for use in a heart patient's chest "within a year." He addressed the New York Heart Association's golden anniversary celebration in New York City Wednesday night.

By Earl Ubell

(Des Moines Register-New York Herald Tribune News Service)

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Perhaps within a month, a human being—his own heart mangled by disease—will hear the hiss of air, click of valves and throb of a man-made plastic machine inside his own body, pumping blood, keeping him alive hour after hour, day after day.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, Houston, Tex., heart surgeon, and confidant to the President, drew that picture for the New York Heart Association's golden anniversary celebration Wednesday night at Hotel Biltmore.

The machine—hardly bigger than a Texas grapefruit—does not replace the entire heart; it takes over for the left and more powerful side of the pumping organ. Cradling the white gadget in his hand as he spoke to the press before the dinner, DeBakey said he would be technically ready to install it in a human being within a month.

"Certainly this pump will be in a human being this year," DeBakey said.

Thus did DeBakey indicate how far along his 3 year, $2-million effort had brought him in the race to install an artificial heart in a human being. And it is a race. At least three other laboratories are working at top speed to perfect an artificial blood pump.

DeBakey's pump, developed with Dr. William Hall and Dr. Domingo Lloita at Baylor University Medical School, actually will be half outside the body on the chest wall—some-

ACTS TO SPARE BALD EAGLES

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP) — New steps designed to halt the steady decline in the number of bald eagles—the nation's symbol—were ordered Wednesday night by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Warning that the species is threatened over much of its range, Udall directed:

That bald eagle nesting sites on national wildlife refuges be closed off to protect the birds from disturbance during the nesting season, with a approximately one square mile to be provided for each nesting area.

That nesting areas, where appropriate, be included in designated natural areas to prevent further disturbance of cover.

That timber cutting operations not be permitted within one-half mile of trees containing bald eagle nests, and that potential nest sites be carefully preserved.

That in cases where trees with nests are in danger of being blown down, the trees be stabilized, if possible.

Udall also ordered increased efforts to protect the nests of golden eagles and ospreys.

Both bald and golden eagles are protected by federal laws against shooting or trapping.

Kenneth A. Teer, 28, who gave his address as 1424 Thirtieth st., was fined $400 or 20 days in jail by Municipal Judge Luther T. Glanton, jr., Wednesday on two charges of driving while his license was suspended.

Teer was taken to Polk County Jail when he failed to pay his fine. He pleaded guilty of driving on Nov. 17 and Jan. 12 while his license was under suspension. He also was bound over to the Polk County Grand Jury on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property.

pounds of opium and marijuana at various locations in the village.

The provost marshal said the soldiers charged with illegal possession of narcotics had been "extremely co-operative" and had been continued in their duty assignments. Their names have not been made public.

5-Year Term

If convicted by a court martial, the four men and any of the other suspects could be sentenced to five years in prison—a fact noted pointedly in a recent issue of the division's daily bulletin.

The division surgeon, Lt. Col. James E. McCary of Fort Worth, Tex., who first identified the drugs that were seized, said he viewed the use of narcotics as an "extremely serious" but nevertheless "entirely understandable" development here.

"If you get 12,000 to 16,000 boys together," he said, "some of them will act like jerks. They think they aren't men until they get V.D. and smoke pot (marijuana) and there's nothing you can do to stop them."

Until the 16,000 men of the 1st Cavalry began arriving here Sept. 12, An Khe was a Vietnamese hamlet in the flatlands between two ranges of mountains athwart the strategic east-west Highway 19.

Now it is an astonishing boom town. In shacks made of palm fronds and flattened beer cans, G. I.'s are offered beer, bar girls, costumed dolls with exaggerated bosoms, steam-hose car washes and Vietnamese gew-gaws.

Several months ago the capable but harassed district officer, Tran Duoc Vu, told American officers he would limit the number of bars to 45 and the number of bar girls to 350. There are now 61 bars and 511 bar girls.

Supervision Difficult

Forced to operate with a limited police force and confronted by rapacious merchants, many with political and military connections, Vu has been powerless to supervise either the bar girls or what is sold in the bars.

Lt. Col. Monroe Kirkpatrick, the division's assistant civil affairs officer, said that U. S. and government authorities hoped to open near An Khe next month an amusement center containing 48 bars, with eight girls in each bar. All other bars in the village would be closed.

"The center will have a wire fence around it," said Kirkpatrick, a native of Arkansas. "It will have only one entrance. It should be easy for the local police to keep track of things there."

The bar girls, many of whom are prostitutes, will be examined regularly by South Vietnamese medical teams with the assistance of U. S. doctors.

The Americans recognize that quasi-official prostitution will not be popular in the United States, but they consider it the only practical alternative to rampant venereal disease.
