Ship Sent Moonward By Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched an unmanned spacecraft Friday on a journey to photograph and study the moon and nearby lunar space but gave no indication a soft landing was planned.

The last Soviet moon probe, Luna 15, crashed on the lunar surface just before the U.S. Apollo 11 astronauts took off from the Sea of Tranquility July 21.

Zond, 7, the new Soviet craft, was lofted into a parking orbit around the earth by "a powerful Soviet carrier rocket" and then was launched toward the moon, the news agency Tass said.

Tass said that, in addition to making lunar studies and photographs, Zond 7 would test "improved on-board systems and the design of the rocket-space complex." The agency did not go into specifics.

For Men Eventually

Moscow has said previously that its unmanned Zond series was partly designed to put men on the moon eventually.

The flight to the moon usually takes 3½ days.

The Soviet Union usually holds back much information about its space shots until after their flights are completed. Then it discloses only those parts of the mission which were successful and hides parts which failed.

Some previous Zond experiments have involved interplanetary missions, two of which are known in the West to have failed.

Venus and Mars

Zond 1 made an unsuccessful attempt to reach Venus in 1964 and Zond 2 failed enroute to Mars in 1965.

Zond 3 was the first success in the program. It took television pictures of the back side of the moon in August, 1965, and transmitted them back to earth. Then it went on into orbit around the sun.

Zond 4, launched in March, 1968, apparently failed in some type of moon mission. A Soviet announcement when it was launched said it was intended to study "outlying regions of near-earth space," but Moscow never mentioned it again and its fate has not been disclosed.

The presence of turtles and insects aboard Zond 5 last year suggested that the latest probe in this series might also have living creatures aboard.

Zond 6, the second of the two round-the-moon-and-back shots last year, also carried "biological objects" but these were not identified.

Extension of Surtax Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Friday signed into law an extension of the 10 percent surtax through the end of this year, calling it a "major and essential step in the administration's program to combat inflation."

He said, however, he still considers a further extension at 5 percent for the first half of 1970 a needed tool to cope with the price spiral.

City Manager Plan Effort Is Postponed

The possibility that Cedar Rapids voters would be asked to consider a change in government referendum apparently disappeared Friday with the announcement that the proponents for council-manager government will hold back until next year.

Duncan Ross, spokesman for the Cedar Rapids Form of Government organization, issued the following statement:

"The steering committee of Cedar Rapids for Council-Manager Form of Government has decided it is in the best interest of the community to delay its call for a referendum on government form until after the November election.

"Preliminary discussion suggests that next spring would be a good time to hold the referendum. The additional time will permit concerned citizens a better opportunity to work together to overcome the present voter apathy regarding our form of government and so increase the chance for approval by the voters.

"It is hoped citizens in the city will join in a united and systematic effort to give the citizens of the city a genuine opportunity to decide the council-manager case on its merits. With a systematic effort the city can make an orderly change to a form of government better suited to the needs of the community as it grows into a significant metropolitan area."

Soviets Expel U.S. Diplomat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has expelled a diplomat from the U.S. embassy in Moscow in retaliation for the U.S. ouster of an official of the Soviet U.N. delegation on a charge of spying.

The state department, announcing the exchange, disclosed also that the U.S. had protested to the Soviet government that the retaliatory action against Embassy Counselor Milton Kovner was "prejudicial to our relations."

The ousted Russian was named.

Columnist Offers New Angle in Kennedy Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson says Sen. Edward Kennedy asked his cousin, Joseph Gargan, "to take the rap" for driving the car in which a young secretary drowned.

In his copyrighted column Friday, Anderson said Gargan "grimly said he would admit to driving the car."

"In the cold light of dawn, Kennedy decided to face the consequences himself, and then he filed his terse statement with the Edgartown police at 10 a.m.," said Anderson, who co-authored the column with Drew Pearson.

The Washington Post quoted Gargan as saying in Hyannis Port, Mass., that there was "no truth whatsoever" to Anderson's story.

A Kennedy family source said members of the family knew Anderson's column was being prepared, and it "is entirely untrue" and "has no basis in fact whatsoever."

Kennedy's office said the senator would have no comment on the Anderson report.

Anderson, attributing his story to "reliable sources" and Kennedy "intimates," said the senator had invited Mary Jo Kopechne to go for a midnight swim the night the car went off a narrow bridge.

The columnist described the swim as "a nocturnal adventure not uncommon on Martha's Vineyard."

"Nor are these summer night swims necessarily viewed as evidence of immoral conduct," Anderson added. He said Kennedy knew where he was going but the car was going too fast and went off into the water.

Mary Jo drowned despite Kennedy's efforts to free her.

In his exhausted state, Kennedy conceived the idea of asking "Joe Gargan to take the rap for him," Anderson said.

The columnist said Kennedy summoned Gargan and "returned to the scene of the disaster to make certain that Gargan would be totally familiar with the circumstances surrounding 'his' unfortunate accident."

Inquest Will Open Sept. 3

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The inquest into Sen. Edward Kennedy's auto accident will begin in this island resort town Sept. 3, District Judge James Boyle announced Friday.

The announcement was made after a meeting between Boyle and District Attorney Edmund Dmis, who ordered the inquest.

Dinis said he had "no intention at this time" of calling Kennedy to testify.

He had indicated earlier that he would be summoning Kennedy. The senator said he would cooperate in any legal proceedings connected with the accident, and has canceled a European trip to keep himself available.

Parents Opposed

Meanwhile Dinis was advised that he will have to go to court if he wants an autopsy on the

Michigan U. ISU Slaying Link Studied

AMES — Possible links between the slaying of an Iowa State university coed and the seven Michigan slayings were reported Friday by Chicago Today.

The Chicago newspaper reported that the investigation into the slayings of seven young women in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti, Mich., area has brought two other unsolved coed murders at Midwest campuses back into the spotlight.

One of those is the unsolved murder of Sheila Jean Collins, 18, of Evanston, Ill., who was found Jan. 22, 1968, lying face-down in a ditch off a gravel road 15 miles outside of Ames.

The other is the slaying of Christine Rothschild, 18, of Chicago, who was found May 27, 1968, strangled and stabbed on the main campus of the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

Miss Collins was found partly clad, but all of her belongings were nearby. This fits a pattern established in several of the Michigan murders, Today said.

Stiff Senate Scrutiny Faced by Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house gave its huge tax reform and relief bill a big sendoff by passing it Thursday, 394-30, but the legislation was destined for a cautious reception in the senate.

The senate finance committee will give it a careful going over and plans to hear more than 100 witnesses, largely speaking for interests which face higher taxes if it becomes law.

These hearings won't start until after congress returns Sept. 3 from its summer recess, and the committee work may run almost two months.

Chairman Long (D-La.) has promised to try to complete committee action by Oct. 31.

The bill passed Thursday by the house was the most thorough tax code revision in a generation.

Tightened Law

It tightens the law in 27 areas to produce ultimately $6.8 billion in additional revenue and would provide eventual tax relief calculated at $9.2 billion for all but the highest income brackets.

By 1972, the bill's sponsors say, a family of four making $3,500 and taxed $70 would pay no tax; one receiving $7,500 would pay about $110 less than at present.

The greatest proportionate savings would be at the low end of the income scale and for widows, widowers and single persons 35 and older.

The revenue-increasing provisions include repeal of the 7 percent investment credit, trimming the oil depletion allowance from 27½ percent to 20 percent, reduction of other tax advantages for the petroleum industry, and abolition of the fastest method of real estate depreciation except for residential building.

Could Be Restored

Most of the 30 adverse votes in the house were from oil and other mineral-producing states.

Predictions were that the reforms might be cut back sharply in the senate committee. Long has promised to try to keep the full 27½ percent depreciation allowance.

But any reforms deleted in committee could be restored on the senate floor — especially since the Democratic leader-

Mills Sharp at Timing Events

WASHINGTON (AP) — Canny calculation of the time it would take to get a tax reform bill through the house has saved Rep. Wilbur Mills $1.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the house ways and means committee and principal architect of the bill, said that seven years ago a friend offered to bet him $100,000 to $1 there would be a man on the moon before the house passed a tax reform measure.

Mills, known for fiscal conservatism, declined the wager. The reform bill was passed Thursday — 18 days after the moon landing.

ship is on record for them—or later in conference with the house.

Chairman Mills (D-Ark.) of the ways and means committee, principal house architect of the measure, spoke optimistically to newsmen after the house vote.

"They'll try to add things to the bill, but usually substantive changes made in house tax bills don't stand up," he said.

Relief Provisions

Privately, however, house leaders expressed concern that, if the senate prolongs consideration too long, opponents of the changes might build up enough strength to strip the bill.

Major relief provisions of the measure include a general income tax rate cut effective in 1971 and 1972, removal of the tax for many low income families, and an increase in the standard deduction used by those who do not itemize in their returns.

Widows, widowers and mature single persons would be given head-of-household privileges.

Senate Votes For Defense Audit Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators seeking stricter control over Pentagon spending are hailing their victory over the military and its congressional allies on the issue of auditing major defense contracts.

"I'm elated," Sen. Schweiker (R-Pa.) said after a series of three votes — two of them decided by one-vote margins — in which a bipartisan coalition Thursday recouped some of the ground lost in their unsuccessful effort to block the Safeguard missile defense system.

Schweiker, a senate freshman, called the action "a reflection of the mood of the senate and the people that military spending has got out of hand."

Sen. Yarborough (D-Texas) called it "a very significant vote, not against the military establishment per se, but against the squandering of government money."

"Mighty Encouraging"

"Isn't that terrific? It's mighty encouraging," Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis.) told a newsmen. Proxmire is leading a group of senators trying to cut other parts of the $20 billion military procurement bill.

The Wisconsin Democrat expects difficult fights on many other pending amendments aimed at the C-5A super transport, a new aircraft carrier and the Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft.

Debate was expected Friday on the amendment of Sen. Eagleton (D-Mo.) which would strike $54.5 million in funds for the MBT-70 tank. The senate could start work too on eight amendments which would curb Pentagon use of chemical and biological warfare (CBW).

Pompidou Govt. Cut 11 Percent

PARIS (AP) — The French government devalued the franc by 11.1 percent Friday.

The value of the franc in relation to American money has been 20-plus cents. It now will be worth a little less than 18 cents.

The new regime of President Georges Pompidou thus bowed to the forces that his predecessor, Charles de Gaulle, defied last November when international monetary experts took a devaluation of the franc as an all but accomplished fact.

Pompidou told his cabinet: "Common sense made it advisable to align the franc with the rate at which it was evaluated in trade transactions abroad."

French officials have been worried about an overheated economy and the possibility of adverse reaction by labor if measures were taken to cool it. A wide trade gap has brought a drain on gold and hard-currency reserves.

Olivier Wormser, governor of the Bank of France, warned last month that austerity measures taken in November to save the franc from devaluation were not producing the desired effects. He urged "firmness in limiting public spending."

Friday's decision was taken at an emergency cabinet meeting called by Pompidou. It is the first devaluation of the franc since December, 1958.

Fighting Heats Up in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The heaviest action in nearly two months was reported across South Vietnam Thursday. But U.S. military spokesmen said it was too early to tell whether it was only a brief break in the lull or the prelude to renewal of major enemy operations.

Allied communiques reported a sharp increase in fighting just south of the demilitarized zone, in the coastal lowlands south of Da Nang, in the central highlands, and in War Zone D northeast of Saigon.

Allied spokesmen reported at least 147 enemy soldiers killed in ground actions since midnight Wednesday. American losses were put at 14 killed and 164 wounded.

Enemy troops shot down two American observation helicopters 47 miles southeast of Da Nang, and U.S. paratroopers were rushed in to rescue the crews.

This touched off a heavy exchange of fire in which at least one enemy soldier and one American were killed and 11 Americans were wounded.

Hot-Line Pact by Nixon, Kiesinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard Nixon and West German Chancellor Kiesinger agreed Friday to establish a hot line for instant communication between the White House and the chancellor's office in Bonn.

A statement following two days of talks said the line will be installed as soon as technical arrangements have been completed.

While the statement made no mention of any crisis, it said Nixon and Kiesinger had agreed on the importance of staying in close communication.

Gustav Husak

Soon it will be a year since the Soviet invasion throttled Czechoslovakia's reform movement. There is still too much anti-Soviet activity there to suit the Russians.

This week a top Soviet trouble-shooter arrived in Prague.

Last Saturday, Husak and President Ludvik Svoboda went to the Soviet Crimea on what the Soviet newspaper Izvestia called a "short holiday." They met Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny. The circumstances suggest that Brezhnev read the riot act.

It has been four months since Husak was elevated to the top party position in Prague, succeeding Alexander Dubcek, who had come to symbolize reform. Husak's message was that his countrymen would have to live with the idea that the reform movement was dead, but he appeared to be moving with reluctance to turn back the clock.

The arrival in Prague of Gen. Alexei Yepishev from Moscow has the look of bad news for Husak and Svoboda. There is a note of "act or else" ultimatum in this development.

Yepishev, 61, is a veteran of Soviet security service. As top political commissar of the Soviet armed forces, he is an expert in the enforcement of communist discipline in army and police ranks. He is also experienced in dealing with difficult communist leaders, having served both in Romania and Yugoslavia as Soviet ambassador. He has a long record of faithful service to the party under Stalin, Khrushchev and the present leaders.

Part of Yepishev's mission is likely to be connected with indoctrination of the armed forces and police for establishing nationwide discipline and eliminating overt anti-Soviet actions. He could also be on hand to preside, if necessary, over a changing of the guard, to bring into top positions of authority men who would pay closer attention to the Kremlin's demands.

Obviously the Russian leaders are annoyed at the present state of affairs. Disobedience has not been effectively snuffed out. The Soviet press unflinchingly lectures the Czechoslovaks on their "international duty."

Husak's position never has been a secure one. He knew the wrath of Moscow once before and suffered for it. Husak was a communist partisan fighter against the Nazis during World War II,

Civic Center Gets Bosh Endorsement

Cedar Rapids Mayor Frank Bosh gave the civic center proposal a hearty recommendation Friday and said he's convinced the city would be making a "serious mistake" if it did not provide a civic center.

Bosh said his endorsement reflects his personal feelings and is not the attitude of the city council, which historically has remained neutral in special elections. He noted that the council's role is that of the vehicle required in providing the referendum.

"I'm for the civic center. We all should be for it," said Bosh, who said the civic center, like other proposals for growth and development, has met a natural amount of resistance due to the taxpayers' having the burden of paying for it.

Has Been Proud

But after such projects have been completed, the city has been proud of them, Bosh said.

Bosh, referring to a magazine called "Aud Arena Stadium," read a list of cities which have provided civic centers.

"If we are going to be a growing, vibrant Midwest section, we have to provide facilities that other cities are providing," Bosh said.

Bosh said cities competing for new industries enjoy an advantage if they have a center of cultural activities.

Bosh said he agrees that the First Avenue NE site is the best one and said he agrees with the size need projections (8,000-seat arena) for the building.

Overdue

Bosh said the civic center actually should have been built years ago when it would not have cost as much as today.

However, the city did not have the urban renewal land available years ago, he added.

He acknowledged that civic centers should be built by private enterprise, but in reality civic centers do not make enough money to make such ventures attractive.

While similar arenas in other cities operate at or near the break-even point, they do not pay for the cost of building them.

If the civic center referendum passes, the retirement of the $7.9 million bond debt will be up to the voters.

The issue goes to the voters next Tuesday.

Toplessness a No-No; Council Holds Up Permit

Dancing topless a-g-o-g-o definitely is a no-no as far as Cedar Rapids Mayor Frank Bosh is concerned, so Sine Kalell's beer permit renewal for the Thunderbird Lounge is being held up.

The city council approved a resolution granting the permit Wednesday, but then word reached Bosh that Kalell was advertising the beginning of performances by a topless go-go dancer next Monday.

Kalell's current beer permit for the lounge, 835 Center Point road NE, expires Sunday.

Bosh said Friday he will not sign the beer permit resolution until Kalell assures the city council that entertainers will be sufficiently clad to ensure good taste.

He said topless dancing is "not for Cedar Rapids."

City officials Thursday asked the Iowa liquor control commission to hold up renewal of Kalell's liquor permit because of the topless go-go advertisements. State officials agreed they would withhold issuance of the permit.

but after the communists took over in 1948 his fortunes sagged. He was one of the many victims of Stalin's widespread witchhunt for "bourgeois nationalists." The term then, as now, meant that he was suspected of being as concerned about Czechoslovakia's own interests as he was about Moscow's.

His ill fortune persisted into the post-Stalin era. A year after Stalin died, the rigid Stalinist regime in Prague sentenced Husak to life imprisonment. He was not released until 1960, and it was three more years before he was "rehabilitated." Even then he was not permitted to hold any political office.

Husak did not make a political comeback until late in this decade. When the Russians invaded last year, Husak was chief of the Slovak branch of the communist party. He accepted the invasion as a necessary imposition of "temporary restrictions."

He went along with Moscow to the extent of issuing stern warnings to the public not to invite harsher measures by resisting. When the Russians finally forced Dubcek out in April, the top party job fell to Husak.

But Husak has been on probation.

body of Mary Jo Kopechne, who is buried in Plymouth, Pa.

Her parents have indicated they will oppose exhumation and District Attorney Blythe Evans of Luzerne county, Pa., has assured them they will have a chance to make their stand in court.

In a letter to Dinis, Evans said: "No order would be considered in Pennsylvania without notice to the near relatives and an opportunity for them to appear in the proceedings for such an order. In order for our courts to consider an order for an autopsy, it would require a showing of imperative reasons."

In Wilkes-Barre, Evans told newsmen, "It's not up to me. An autopsy will be at the discretion of the Pennsylvania courts. All the facts are in Massachusetts."

on a campus bulletin board asking for a ride to Evanston, and an unknown man had responded.

Today said further, "The ploy of offering the girl a ride to Evanston also ties in with the methods of the Michigan slayer or slayers. In almost every case, the dead girls had been offered rides, and in one case, that of Jane Louise Mixer, 23, the victim had put a note on a campus bulletin board requesting a ride to her Muskegon, Mich., home."

Rumor Mill at Work on Plans Of Mayor Bosh

Rumors are flying about Cedar Rapids concerning Mayor Frank Bosh's impending resignation from his office and departure from the city.

Bosh is playing it cagey. "Pick out a combination of the rumors and you may come up with the right answer," he says.

Bosh said he may not announce his plans until September. He already has said he will not seek re-election.

While there is considerable speculation over where Bosh is going and what new job he will take, it is no secret that he is leaving town and that he will leave before his term expires Dec. 31.

Exactly where Bosh will live and what job he will take are not common knowledge.

Those close to Bosh know he will leave by October and will live in Arizona. His family is expected to precede him so the children may enroll in school there.

Upon Bosh's departure, it will be up to the city council to appoint an interim mayor. Under law, the finance commissioner, Stewart Shank, is to serve as mayor until the appointee is named.

Four men, none of them members of the city council, have obtained nomination papers for the mayor's office. Public Improvements Commissioner Donald Canney, currently on vacation, reportedly is giving the mayoral post serious consideration.

Child Rescued From Drowning In Wading Pool

James May, Viola, is credited with saving the life of 2-year-old Lavidia M. Hensen, 343 Fifth avenue SW, Friday afternoon at Bever park wading pool.

May, an employee of Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., was working nearby and noticed the girl was in difficulty in the water. He rushed to the pool and pulled her out, police said.

They also reported he gave the girl mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. She was blue when pulled out of the pool. Police said the girl was doing well after treatment at St. Luke's hospital.

Florida Blackout Situation Ironical

MIAMI (AP) — Tiny relays in a Port Everglades switchyard have been blamed for a blackout that affected two million residents of the neon-lit Gold Coast Tuesday.

"The irony of the situation is that the relays causing the trouble were installed only six months ago as the most modern, up-to-date equipment to prevent the very thing they caused," Florida Power & Light Corp. said in a statement Thursday.

The company said that after a stroke of lightning snapped a transmission line north of Port Everglades, switches at each end of the line opened as they should, but the new back-up relays malfunctioned and dropped generators there off the line. The company said this triggered further shutdowns in the system.

Paintings Stolen

PARIS (UPI) — Police said Thursday that 17 paintings have been stolen from an apartment in suburban Neuilly.

Municipal Court Actions

Pleads Guilty to Assault Charge

Luther Trent, 915 Ninth street SE, pled guilty Thursday in municipal court to a charge of assault and battery.

Judge L. M. Hullinger, jr., gave Trent 30 days suspended sentence on bond of $150 and placed him on probation to John Illavacek.

Trent was charged in connection with the July 13 assault against Mrs. Johnnie Dickson.

Gets 30-Day Terms On Traffic Counts

Robert L. Caruso, 837 Fifth avenue SE, received 60 days in the county jail Friday for two traffic violations.

Judge L. M. Hullinger, jr., gave Caruso 30 days each on charges of not having a driver's license and improper registration.

Caruso was arrested early Friday after police stopped his car in a routine check. He is being held as a parole violator.

Prague Visit by Graham Is Off

VIENNA (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said Friday that he has decided against going to Prague, where he was scheduled to deliver two sermons next week.

He declined to elaborate on his reasons, but informed sources said he was advised against the trip at this time.

They said it might be considered a provocation by the communist rulers, who have shown nervousness in the face of the forthcoming anniversary of the Soviet invasion, and thus prove harmful to the church.
