Many Travel Far To See Farm Show

By Al Swegle

VAN HORNE — A Pennsylvania dairyman, A. H. Muellinger, 42, may not be the typical Farm Progress show visitor, but he certainly must be one of the more determined ones.

Muellinger left his 300-acre Lancaster county, Pa., farm early this week to make his eighth Farm Progress show visit in about as many years.

"I'm not a hunter, I'm not a fisherman, but this I enjoy," Muellinger said as he sauntered in and out of the displays on the 50-acre main exhibit field.

"It's an inspiration, I guess. I get a lot of ideas that I can use in my own operation, and I enjoy big shows. It goes back to the days when my Dad and I would head for the International Livestock show in the Forties."

As the International faded, Muellinger started going to the Farm Progress show. He's gone to the last eight in Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana, and he stays for all three days of the show.

Foreign Visitors

While Muellinger came from Pennsylvania, several visitors came from foreign countries.

One Italian machinery manufacturer landed at the Cedar Rapids airport Monday evening after hearing of the Farm Progress show. He didn't speak a word of English, and show officials spent a frantic couple of hours trying to find: (1) a room and (2) someone who spoke Italian.

While they did not immediately find the latter, they did find a room, and the Italian visited the show Tuesday.

A group of 65 South African farmland owners were visiting the show site Wednesday, their last stop on a two-week tour of the United States. (See story on farm page, page 5C.)

Record Crowd

A record 130,000 people jammed onto the show grounds on the Bill and Ed Fry farm and the Leon and David Werner farm near Van Horne Tuesday. Show Manager Maynard Bertsch of Chalmers, Ind., said a campground south of the Fry farm was filled Tuesday with nearly 500 campers.

Bertsch expects 300,000 will attend the three-day show when it closes Thursday. As expected, cars were stacked up as much as an hour, but the 22 law enforcement officers kept traffic moving. There were only two minor accidents Tuesday, and none as of Wednesday morning.

The 12 churches operating food tents ran low on some supplies and reordered Tuesday. The churches operated lunch "wagons", delivering food in pickups to farmers watching the harvest activity in the fields.

Popular Attraction

The most popular attraction at the show was the model home display, where two new homes were being shown.

Long lines wound around three sides of one home at times.

Overcast skies seemed to be helping attendance. Unlike seven years ago when the show was delayed because of rain at Van Horne, scattered rains elsewhere kept farmers out of the fields and encouraged them to come to the show.

Some of the visitors came by air, and 225 airplanes had landed on the show's makeshift airway as of Tuesday afternoon. The half-mile-long landing strip is being operated by the Flying Farmers of Iowa.

Besides traffic lines, there were lines at food stands, at drinking fountains, in exhibit tents, in front of restroom facilities and even in front of telephones.

While the farmers come to see the machinery, the exhibitors are drawing them in with entertainment. Such entertainers as Rex Allen and Sheriff Joe Higgins, were

Hurricane Threatens Carolina

MIAMI (UPI) — A hurricane watch was posted for North Carolina Wednesday after Hurricane Ginger, undiminished by seeding with chemical ice, aimed its massive circle of 90-mile-an-hour winds towards the U.S. mainland.

"Gale-force winds are expected over most of the North Carolina coast tonight with a possibility they may reach hurricane force in some sections by early Thursday," the National Hurricane Center warned.

North Carolina residents were warned to start making plans for the possibility of at least getting a glancing blow from Ginger.

Ginger's gales extended 275 miles in all directions and the eye of the storm measured 80 miles across.

"She's enormous in size and if it comes ashore it will cause somebody a lot of trouble," said Dr. Robert Simpson, director of the National Hurricane Center.

Born north of the Bahamas 20 days ago, Ginger is the oldest hurricane ever recorded.

Shoot-To-Kill Order By Thieu on Rioters

SAIGON (AP) — President Thieu Wednesday ordered police to "shoot to kill" anti-government rioters who throw fire-bombs or otherwise endanger lives.

Government spokesman Vu Khanh, confirming Thieu's order, said the president told police officials, "We are living in a period of political danger and turmoil. It is the duty of police to keep order. It is their duty to react to any violence."

"Whoever creates violence in the streets for the purpose of terrorism must be severely punished. Those who are caught red-handed burning autos must be shot on the spot if necessary."

Thieu made no mention of continuing demonstrations against his unopposed candidacy in Sunday's presidential election.

To 400 Police

Thieu issued the order to some 400 police officials from around the country gathered for a meeting at the national police headquarters in Saigon.

Shortly after the meeting, a terrorist bomb exploded in front of a crowded restaurant in suburban Gia Dinh, wounding 24 Vietnamese.

It was the fourth major terrorist bombing in the Saigon area in the past two weeks.

The Gia Dinh province chief, Col. Le Van Tu, said the wounded included five policemen, 14 soldiers, two women, two children and a man.

Tu said preliminary reports showed no one was killed.

Thought VC Work

Sources said the bombing was thought to be the work of Viet Cong who apparently fixed a 10-pound plastic explosive to a bicycle parked outside the building. The restaurant is a favorite of soldiers and policemen.

A vehicle belonging to an American contracting firm was firebombed in central Saigon earlier in the day. There were no injuries.

No new anti-government riots were reported in Saigon, but in the northern city of Da Nang about 300 Buddhist students and monks threw rocks and fire-bombs at combat police surrounding a pagoda.

Police responded by firing volleys of tear gas canisters and one Buddhist student was wounded in the head. Witnesses said they did not see any soldiers firing rifles and presumably the student was wounded by a canister.

Holed Up

The Buddhist students have been holed up in the pagoda for three days after an anti-government demonstration.

In another development, Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, who along with Vice-President Ky withdrew from the presidential race charging that the election was rigged by Thieu, said a president chosen in an uncontested election "can in no way represent the people."

Thus Thieu's regime "cannot end the war, cannot build the peace, and can survive only by appealing to foreign powers," Minh said.

"If the election is held in the existing conditions, the regime of South Vietnam will cease to have a democratic and legal basis, will lose all credit in the eyes of the world, and will be completely alienated from the people."

One Fatality

With few exceptions, police have been restrained in dealing with demonstrations and have quelled most of them quickly and without violence.

One known fatality has occurred so far in a three-week period.

Police Ask Public Aid in Death Probe

By Gary Peterson

Assistant Cedar Rapids police chief Kenneth Vanous laid the entire case involving the death of Maureen Farley on the line Wednesday, describing what police do know and what they don't know and need.

Mrs. Farley, 17, was found dead in southwest Cedar Rapids Friday by two boys hunting. It was later determined that death was caused by a severe blow to the head causing a basal skull fracture.

The girl was last seen alive at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 17.

Vanous said the death is believed to have occurred at a place other than where the body was found, on the trunk of a junk car in a ravine on Ely road SW.

"What we are most interested in right now is what the girl's actions were Sept. 17 through Sept. 22," Vanous said.

No Marks

He said the Linn medical examiner has ruled the girl was dead no less than 48 hours and no more than 96 hours. Vanous said there were no marks on the head to indicate what caused the skull fracture.

"We feel she may have been incapacitated in some way during the time she was missing or at least out of the city. This is not without some facts," he said.

"We know she was broke, and yet her paycheck was ready for her Sept. 17 at Weida's restaurant where she was employed. She borrowed money for a pack of cigarettes that day. Part of the pack was found in her

New Quota Will Bring Total Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Resuming the draft after a three-month lapse, the Pentagon will announce Thursday a new induction quota that will bring 1971 call-ups to the lowest in nearly a decade.

A Pentagon spokesman, Jerry Friedheim, said Wednesday that the new call will cover inductions for October, November and December, and that this year's draft total will end up below 100,000.

The last time the draft fell below 100,000 was in 1962, when 76,500 men were drafted.

83,000 in 6 Months

A total of 83,000 men were inducted in the first six months of this year before the old draft law died June 30.

Friedheim said it will take about two or three weeks after the new call is issued to gear up for actual inductions.

Meanwhile, the defense department reported that the armed forces declined by 27,000 men in August to a total of 2,637,000, smallest in more than six years.

Military Pay Raise Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed legislation extending the draft for two years Tuesday but held up a $2.4 billion-a-year military pay raise until after the wage-price freeze expires Nov. 13.

In a statement, Nixon said he was hopeful "that this is the last time the President must sign an extension of the draft induction authority."

The military pay increases contained in the bill were to go into effect Oct. 1, but the President said they would be delayed.

"By law the pay increases provided in this act are subject to the 90-day wage-price freeze," Nixon said.

Hebert Differs

This interpretation by Nixon runs counter to the view of Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.), chairman of the house armed services committee, and other legislators who contend that the draft-pay increase bill which passed the senate last week supersedes the legislative authority under which Nixon ordered the freeze into effect in mid-August.

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, who met with Nixon along with other G.O.P. congressional leaders after the President signed the bill, said he believed that American military personnel would "accept and understand the five-week delay."

And house G.O.P. whip, Leslie Arends, told reporters he did not believe Hebert would be "too disturbed" by the President's action delaying the wage increases.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said that a justice department legal opinion backed the President's decision to hold up the pay increases.

Civilians' Raises

Nixon noted that he had previously asked congress to per-

Chinese Telecast a Dud

HONG KONG (AP) — Canton television Wednesday relayed more than two hours of programs originating in Peking without the "special and important news program" it had promised.

Watchers in Hong Kong believed the program, represented a fill-in to replace — for some reason — what Canton television had billed as a program concerning the National day celebration Friday.

It was a disappointment for China watchers who had hoped the telecast would clear up some of the recent puzzling developments in Red China.

The Peking announcement a week ago that the traditional National day parade had been canceled touched off speculation that something was stirring.

It has been traditional every Oct. 1 since the Communists took control of the mainland for Mao Tse-tung and other leaders to review the parade.

Wednesday's telecast opened with coverage of a Chinese delegation returning to Peking from a visit to North Vietnam, continued with a long documentary on the use of acupuncture as a medical treatment, then switched to a gymnastics exhibition staged by a visiting Albanian athletic team — at which Premier Chou En-lai was seen.

Even with Chou's appearance, none of the three items appeared significant enough to have warranted Canton telecasting on a Wednesday night — one of the three nights each week it normally does not operate.

Peking radio, meanwhile, reported the capital had been dressed up for the celebration and a large portrait of Mao had been erected in Tien An-men Square.

Budget Cost At Linn-Mar Is Debated

By Pat Peterson

The state appeals board, chaired by State Treasurer Maurice Baringer, heard both objections and commendations on the 1971-72 Linn-Mar school budget at a meeting Tuesday night.

Hearing the second formal budget protest case in as many years, the appeals board listened to objections voiced by Mrs. Virgil Evans, route 2, Marion, and Joe Greenleaf, 181 Chatham road NE. The two spokesmen represented signers of two petitions protesting the 1971-72 budget.

Ward Brimmer, president of the Linn-Mar board, and Sid Schwartz, board member, presented the board's defense of the budget.

Baringer said action on the appeals would be taken on or before Oct. 15.

Mrs. Evans said in her written brief that the budget was being appealed "on nearly the identical basis of the 1970-71 appeal. Careful study of proposed spending shows some of the same excesses that were brought to the attention of the appeals board last year."

Directives

"The state appeals board, after careful study, reduced last year's budget by $125,000. It ap-

Bus Scheduling Changes In C.R. To Begin Monday

Cedar Rapids News-

Changes in downtown Cedar Rapids bus operations — scheduled to take effect Monday morning — were announced Wednesday by the Regional Transit Authority and the Greater Downtown Cedar Rapids Assn.

Worked out by both bodies in recent months, the changes are designed to provide greater convenience for bus patrons, particularly in making transfers.

The primary changes will be in bus-stop zone locations and scheduling.

Bus-stop zones will be concentrated in one general area, as follows:

New Numbers

Vernon Heights-Bever park-Lincolnway, on Third street SE, at Armstrong's department store; Sixteenth avenue-Mt. Mercy-Thirteenth street NE, on Third street SE at the Linn County Health Center building; Kenwood-Grande avenue-Ellis park, on Third street SE at Merchants National bank; West

Highlands-Cedar Hills-Linwood-Marion, on Second avenue SE, at MNB.

The buses will be operated on a first-in first-out basis, both loading and unloading passengers in the same zones.

All buses will carry new route numbers inside their right side and rear windows.

Zones eliminated by these changes will be metered by the city and provide additional downtown on-street parking.

Parking restrictions in bus-stop zones also have been relaxed by the city in conjunction with the changes, and parking will be permitted in them between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m. daily, and on Sundays.

Free Transfers

New scheduling will bring all except Linwood, Thirteenth street NE and Marion buses into the downtown at the same time — arriving at 15 minutes before and after the hour and departing at the half hour and on the hour.

All buses will operate on one

City To Receive Bids Oct. 20 on Demolition Work

The Cedar Rapids city council Wednesday set Oct. 20 as the date for opening bids on demolition of ten houses at various locations in the city.

The houses — deteriorating or abandoned — are among those declared public nuisances by the council this summer, in the wake of petitions from surrounding neighbors.

Authorization for their demolition was granted in Linn district court Sept. 8, with costs of demolition to be assessed against the properties.

City Attorney David McGuire said Wednesday the majority of the remainder of the houses the city is seeking to remove are still involved in court action.

Four, he said, already have been torn down by the owners.

The houses named in Wednesday's action are located at 1111 Ninth street SE, 1106 Sixth street SE, 519 Tenth avenue SE, 616 Tenth avenue SE, 944 Tenth street NE, 1108 Sixth street SE, 908 Sixth street SE, 903 Hull avenue SE, 1214 Fifteenth street SE and 1218 Thirty-sixth street NW.

Says Inmates Slain After Riot Subdued

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Soto, a prisoners' rights activist, said Wednesday that most of the Attica state prison inmates who died in the recent rebellion "were killed after it was brought under control."

He declined to reveal the source of his information.

He said he "knew definitely" that two inmates were slain after the assault. He identified them as Elliott Barkley and Thomas Hicks.

Soto quoted Assemblyman Arthur Eve and Rep. Herman Badillo as saying they saw Barkley "alive, naked and face down on the ground." Eve and Badillo were members of a civilian observers' committee that negotiated with the inmates before the police assault.

Soto also charged that, soon after the riot was controlled, an inmate who had been involved in a riot at another prison was taken from cellblock C and put in the cellblock D area, the riot site.

"They put him against a wall and used him for target practice," Soto alleged. "At first they were just missing him by two or three feet. Then they decided to kill him, but another inmate rushed in front of him and took the bullet."

"The inmate who was shot died. The other man survived."

Soto would not say who allegedly did the firing.

drawing them into their special tents, and at least a half dozen musical groups performed in the exhibit area.

Another popular exhibit was a giant bunker silo on the Fry farm which will hold about 3,000 tons of corn silage when it is filled Thursday. The bunker was about a third full Tuesday.

New buildings being displayed include a farm shop and machine shed, a beef barn and feedlot. The Werners have 24 new portable sow farrowing units. Two new houses are open just west of the show site.

A record number of exhibitors — more than 325 — are showing new products on the 50-acre exhibit field.

Bids Accepted For Apartment At Greenhouse

Twelve bids were received by the city council Wednesday for construction of living quarters and a staff lounge at the Noelridge park greenhouse.

Low bids — accepted by the council — were as follows:

General contractor, Jacobson Construction Co., $7,995; mechanical contractor, Charipar Plumbing, Inc., $2,119; electrical contractor, Cedar Rapids Electric Co., $1,197.

The $11,311 total low bid figure was 19 percent less than the engineers estimate of $14,000.

The living quarters will be occupied by the horticulturist in charge of the greenhouse operation, who will act as watchman and monitor greenhouse temperature and humidity controls.

Needed Money

"We know that if she were in town or capable, she would have picked up the paycheck because she was in need of money," Vanous said.

He said her car was found at the rear of her residence with a full tank of gasoline.

"So far we have only been able to come up with one picture of the girl, which we obtained from her husband of about two years, David. He presently is serving a sentence at the men's reformatory at Anamosa."

"She was five feet tall and very slim, weighing about 100 pounds. She had long brown hair and had light complexion. We have to enlist the help of anyone who may have seen her after Sept. 17."

Uncertainty

"We still are unable to term the death a murder because we are uncertain how or where the crime occurred."

He said there was no indication of "defense wounds," which would be evident if she had fought with someone. When she was found, her clothes were disarrayed, but were not torn, the assistant chief said.

According to Vanous, Mrs. Farley was supposed to have been out on a date the night of her disappearance. "As yet, we have been unable to determine with whom," he said.

Purse, Contents

"Our investigation has revealed she never went anywhere without her purse, which is one of the items missing," he said. "It contained a driver's license altered to show she was 21 years old, usual make-up articles, rent receipts, miscellaneous family pictures, a picture of a marine in uniform, social security card, and a green order pad which she carried to make notes."

Also in the purse was a leather wallet with red velvet lining her husband had made for her at the reformatory.

The purse was described as a brown vinyl bag with two straps and side pockets. It also had a red velvet lining, Vanous said.

When the body was found, Vanous said, the only article of clothing missing was her shoes. Her feet were clean when she was found, indicating she was not going barefooted when she died, he said.

Courthouse Hearing Opens in Howell Request For Injunction

A hearing began Wednesday morning on whether a temporary injunction should be issued which would order Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. not to direct all ambulance calls to the ambulance service provided by the Cedar Rapids Hospital Council.

B. T. Howell, president of Ambulance Co., Inc., which is seeking the injunction, was on the stand in Linn district court, and testified how his business has decreased greatly since Feb. 2.

His petition, seeking $56,235.84 from the telephone company, contends Northwestern Bell discriminates against his service by directing all calls to the other service.

Disagreement

Howell's announcement on Feb. 2 that his company would no longer make ambulance calls in Cedar Rapids climaxed a long disagreement with welfare officials about payment to Howell for service to welfare recipients.

Howell said in court Wednesday that he was told over the phone in March by an unidentified operator that operators had been directed to send all calls for ambulances to the police department.

Police Calls

Other testimony brought out that a contract between the city and the hospital council provides that police will direct all ambulance calls to the hospital operated service.

On cross-examination, he said, he cut down on his personnel in February and thought at that time he did not have enough personnel to comply with the city code, but later resumed answering calls in the city.

Woman's Heirs Ask That Will Be Set Aside

A number of relatives of a deceased Cedar Rapids woman have gone to court to seek to have a will purported to be hers thrown out, even though setting it aside would mean they would get less inheritance.

In a petition in Linn district court the first cousins of Edna Maier, who died Aug. 22, are seeking to set aside a Sept. 3, 1969, document in which Miss Maier named her first cousins as her sole heirs.

The first cousins say a May 7, 1968, document should be considered her will because the later one was drawn up during a time she did not have the capacity to know the natural objects of her bounty and therefore did not provide for them.

Those seeking to set aside the later document say Miss Maier's last real intention was to provide also for two second cousins and for the Children's Home of Cedar Rapids, St. Paul's Methodist church of Cedar Rapids and the Evangelical United Brethren church of Lafayette.

The earlier will named two second cousins as heirs: Mildred Haehlen to receive her residence and George Etzel to receive a farm in Otter Creek township. It provided for $2,000 to the organizations and the remainder of the estate to go to the first cousins.

First cousins bringing the action are Ivan W. Maier, Irvin Maier, Mary Haehlen, Ruth Maier, Charly Michel, Milton Etzel, Walter Quaas, Ernest H. Etzel, Leilia McCreery and Mille Webber.

C.R. Man Admits Assault Charge

Allen L. Clark, 19, of Cedar Rapids, pled guilty in Linn district court Wednesday to a reduced charge of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury. He was given a suspended sentence of one year in the county jail.

He originally was charged with rape in connection with June 7 incident involving a 17-year-old Cedar Rapids girl.

Judge B. J. Maxwell placed Clark on probation.

Residents Ask Oak Hill Area Industrial Ban

The problem of industrial pollution in the Oak Hill-Jackson area was brought before the Cedar Rapids city council Wednesday, and questions were raised about what was being and could be done to curtail it.

Marian Antin and Viola Gibson, members of the board of Jane Boyd Community House, said pollution already is severe in the area and future industrial expansion there should somehow be prohibited.

"We know we can't control the industry that is there now," said Mrs. Antin, asking if it were within the council's power to ban future rezonings to heavy industrial use and also revert undeveloped lands now so zoned to non-industrial categories.

Various Forms

Mrs. Gibson said the forms of pollution afflicting the area were various, ranging from offensive odor to excessive noise, and that some persons have moved out of the neighborhood because of this apparent lack of concern for the people living there.

A petition being circulated protesting these conditions, she said, already has garnered 150 signatures.

Council members said they were sympathetic to the objections raised but could not bind future councils by prohibiting further industrial rezoning, and it was doubtful whether they had the power to revert lands back to prior designations.

"Fully Aware"

"I know there are things we sometimes would like to see done that legally can't be done," said Mayor Donald Canney.

"But this council is fully aware of the problems and I'm sure we would be very reluctant to favor any further industrial zoning in the area."

"Any future move would depend on the council in office at that time."

Canney said he had to take exception to any statements that there was no concern about pollution in the city, stating that Cedar Rapids was the first city of its size in the nation to enact an air pollution control ordinance, in February of 1967.

Spent Large Sums

Since that time, he said, the city and its industries have spent more than $16 million on controlling air pollution, and the city's ordinance has also been updated and made more strict.

"I think it only fair to say that we have not been lagging," he said.

The problem in controlling pollution, he added, was not so much one of money as technology, explaining that complex technical issues were involved, and in many cases effective measures were yet to be found.

Motorist Faces Right-of-Way Count

Carl H. Luedeman, 2736 Twelfth avenue SW, was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way to oncoming traffic Tuesday afternoon.

Authorities said he attempted a left turn into the path of a car operated by William Encke, 18, Mt. Vernon, at the intersection of Twelfth avenue and Williams boulevard SW.

Encke and a passenger in his car, Connie Becker, 18, Mt. Vernon, were treated at Mercy hospital for head lacerations and released.
