

Speaker Says Vast Reservoir Of Good Will Exists in Japan

There's a vast reservoir of good will in Japan toward the United States, in the opinion of Allan W. Dakin, administrative dean of the State University of Iowa, guest speaker at the Muscatine Rotary club's Ladies Night program, held Monday night at Hotel Muscatine.

Mr. Dakin, who spoke following a 6:30 p.m. dinner, visited Japan last year as a representative of Rotary International, in connection with arrangements for the annual Rotary International convention, to be held at Tokyo May 28-June 1. Mr. Dakin had visited Japan 21 years ago as a tourist.

In presenting his impressions of Japan today, the speaker reported that the nation has apparently recovered from the devastating effects of World War II. Damaged areas have been rebuilt. The nation is experiencing a population explosion, with 95 million people living in an area the size of California.

Schools are overflowing, he said and the nation is making a big bid for international trade through the production of modern factories. Culture along with merchandise is also being exported through providing funds in a foundation for study in Japan by southeast Asia students. Emphasis is being placed upon providing educational and other advantages for youth.

E. H. Breckenfelder, president-elect of the Muscatine Rotary club, and Mrs. Breckenfelder, will go to Tokyo for the Rotary International convention, the president-elect reported Monday night. They plan to leave here May 24, reach Japan May 27, and after the convention, travel with a group of touring Rotarians by way of Hong Kong, Calcutta, New Delhi, Bombay, Cairo, Athens and Rome to the United States.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, he reported, won the admiration of the Japanese people by his treatment and understanding of them in the post World War II period, Dakin said.

The speaker reviewed his travels to a number of Japanese cities as a Rotary International representative, and contacts with influential Rotarians and business and civic leaders. He also touched upon habits and customs of the land, which differ widely from those in this nation.

Music was presented on the program by a triple trio from Hayes Catholic high school which included Carolyn Stewart, Susan Kintzel, Donna Tibbets, Sue Nelson, Susan Peters, Madalyn Johnson, Mary Lister and Judy Kelly, with Pam Pothoff, Bonnie Brecht and Kathleen Wessels as accompanists.

Japanese dolls were presented to wives of Rotarians as favors. Stanley Howe, club president, welcomed guests.

Members of the program committee which handled arrangements included Roy Kautz, Dick Melson, George Volger and John Wessels. Mr. Dakin was introduced by Mr. Volger.

Mealy gave his contest speech, "At the point of no return," and Smith described "Pitfalls of the barbecue."

Topic speeches were all based on mystery objects in wrapped packages. Topic speakers were Richard Dobrovoly, "The six-gun, developer of the West;" Bernard Flanders, "The hammer has advanced civilization;" Jon Luckstead, "The TV Guide, aid to time wasting;" C. E. Gillespie, "A dog-gone good way to save money;" Walter Riley, "The dictionary is a good tool for any undertaking;" George Michael Jr., "Trading stamps, the housewife's goal;" Edward Maher, "Baby shoes and 12 feet of happiness;" Ralph Jackson, "Garlic salt, and the world's food problems;" and Richard Parish, "Headache cures are a headache to me."

Wind Topples Tree

A heavy gust of wind here shortly before 1 p.m. Monday toppled a large tree into the alley behind the Washington elementary school. The tree had been growing in the backyard of the house at 514 West Third. The falling tree created a bit of excitement for the Washington school children, and pulled down electrical wires which disrupted service to a part of the area for several hours. Linemen of the municipal electrical department are shown at work restoring service.

Transfer Two To Anamosa

Two young Muscatine men, sentenced to Fort Madison state penitentiary for up to 10 years for joining in the armed robbery of a Bloomington township farm widow, have been transferred to the men's reformatory at Anamosa.

Kenneth E. Burhop, 18, and Benjamin E. Batchelor, 23, drew the sentences on pleading guilty before Judge Matthew Westrate in Muscatine district court in February. Notice of the action of the state board of control was received today by the office of the Muscatine district court clerk, Florence Hetzler.

The board of control acted on the recommendations of Warden John E. Bennett, who said the transfers would be to the best interests of the prisoners and the state penitentiary.

Burhop had requested a penitentiary, rather than a reformatory, sentence because of a better opportunity to learn a trade at Fort Madison.

They were arrested for robbing Mrs. Ethel Weaver, route 4, the night of Dec. 30. A third defendant, Dennis E. Strause, 17, won a bench parole from a three-year sentence at Anamosa. A fourth member of the gang, aged 19, was committed to the Eldora state training school.
