Cease-Fire Link Asked By Rogers

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Rogers called on an international conference on Vietnam to set up simple machinery to make certain peace there does not fall into jeopardy. Canada expressed its displeasure at the present system and threatened to pull out of the peacekeeping commission in South Vietnam.

Rogers suggested to the opening session of the conference that it should establish a simple link with the peacekeepers in the field and that if six or more of the parties meeting here find that peace is in danger then the conference "had the right and responsibility to reconvene."

Will Quit Unless...

Canada officially informed the conference it will quit the four-nation peace supervisory commission by April 30 unless an international authority is established to deal with cease-fire violations.

This stand put forth by Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp was supported in principle at least by Rogers during the 2 1/2-hour session.

U.S. officials said the method for setting up an authority to deal with peace violations is open to negotiation.

It seems obvious, the secretary said, that the parties have a responsibility in the event of violations which threaten the peace, independence, or right of self-determination of the Vietnamese people.

Should Consult

This is both a joint and individual responsibility, he said, which means all participants should consult with each other on a regular basis concerning the agreement.

Such a relationship would permit the conference to keep track of important developments, Rogers added.

Sharp told the 13-party conference Canada might also withdraw from the commission if it is unable to function effectively in the field. He introduced a resolution calling for U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim

Search for Guy Heckle Is Resumed

The search continued Monday in the Cedar river near Toddville for the body of Guy Heckle, 11, last seen in that area on Feb. 3 while on a Boy Scout outing.

The search had been resumed Sunday after Robert Comp, Palo, discovered a jacket identical to the one worn by the boy, son of the Howard Heckles, 1505 Forty-eighth street NE, at the time of his disappearance.

The jacket was snagged on a log on the east bank of the river, across the river from the Duane Arnold River Center.

It was near the place where the boy was last seen and Capt. George Griffin, chief Linn deputy, said the jacket was found near where the backwaters in the camping area flow into the river.

First Clue

He said the finding of the jacket, the first clue to be found, together with other facts, leads to the conclusion that drowning is the most likely theory for the boy's disappearance.

There was a large number of searchers in the area shortly after the disappearance, he said, making it unlikely that the boy would not have been found if he had been on land. There are some places along the river and the backwaters where there are sharp dropoffs, he added.

Griffin said that although

SOUTH VIETNAMESE civilians tear down the barricade outside a North Vietnamese compound in Hue Sunday as South Vietnamese soldiers attempt to hold them out. Five members of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Joint Military Commission were injured in the incident, two seriously.

Reds Delay New Release of POWs

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman said Monday that no American prisoners of war will be released on Tuesday, but U.S. officials were hopeful of last-minute word from Hanoi announcing about 140 more POWs would be handed over.

"There will definitely not be any POW releases Tuesday," the chief North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, Bui Tin, told newsmen. He added that the list of the next prisoners to be turned over also would not be delivered Monday. He said word was expected soon from Hanoi, but he did not know when it would come.

The Communists did not say so but it appeared the hitch in the prisoner release may have stemmed from riots at Hue in which five North Vietnamese cease-fire supervisors were injured.

Rioting broke out Sunday in Hue after a crowd, mostly women, made a pilgrimage to a graveyard where thousands of victims of the Communists' 1968 Tet offensive are buried. About 100 of the women ransacked a barracks where Communist delegates were housed, set fire to North Vietnamese uniforms and pelted five Communists with rocks, wood and bits of pottery.

The U.S. air war over Cambodia was stepped up Sunday and heavy bombers were used for the first time in nearly a month, military officials in Honolulu reported.

B-52 Operations

The Pacific military command said U.S. aircraft, including B-52s, conducted operations over Cambodia at the request of the Cambodian government. The B-52s last were employed over Cambodia Jan. 29 according to command reports.

Kissinger said that while he was in Hanoi, he presented a U.S. analysis of the missing in action, "particularly where we had some evidence that a flier had parachuted... or where we had collateral evidence that a person might have been taken prisoner."

Sources at the command said increased air activity came in response to the increase in enemy activity throughout much of Cambodia.

U.S. sources reported Monday that American reconnaissance planes have turned up evidence that North Vietnam is preparing its first air base in South Vietnam with a battery of Soviet-built missiles to protect it.

The Saigon government presented U.S. aerial photographs purporting to show SAM-2 missile sites built after the Jan. 28 cease-fire around Khe Sanh in the northern quarter of South Vietnam.

U.S. sources said North Vietnamese engineers are rebuilding a 4,000-foot air strip at Khe Sanh that was first constructed by American engineers in the late 1960s. The sources said it was not clear how North Vietnam would use the air base, in Quang Tri province about 15 miles below the demilitarized zone and six miles from the Laotian border.

V.C. Units

Tin denied the missiles had been moved down by North Vietnamese troops after the cease-fire. He said it is well known that the Viet Cong have had SAM units in Quang Tri Province for some time.

Tin said the senior members of the Joint Military Commission would take up the POW issue at their next regular meeting, Wednesday, indicating he expected no transfer of POWs before Thursday.

But a U.S. official told newsmen there was still a "distinct possibility" of about 140 Americans being released on Tuesday, "the last day of the second

Kissinger Aims North Vietnam's Pledge To Probe Fate of Missing

NEW YORK (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger says North Vietnam has promised "a full investigation" into the fates of some 1,300 Americans who are still unaccounted for in Vietnam.

"Now, I must say that I cannot really believe that the North Vietnamese would hide prisoners on us," Kissinger said in an interview broadcast Sunday night by the National Broadcasting Co.

Kissinger said that while he was in Hanoi, he presented a U.S. analysis of the missing in action, "particularly where we had some evidence that a flier had parachuted... or where we had collateral evidence that a person might have been taken prisoner."

Never Relinquish

Kissinger told NBC correspondent Barbara Walters, "North Vietnam will never relinquish its desire to take over South Vietnam." But that is not the issue, he added.

"The issue is will they want to unify Vietnam by force or are they willing to rely on an evolutionary process," Kissinger said. He said he thought the North Vietnamese were considering a "peaceful revolution... for the first time in their history and in their lives."

He said the United States was not opposed to unification through peaceful, political means. "If the performance on one part or the other is so clearly superior to that of the other that it tends to achieve moral superiority over the other, that is not an American concern," he said.

Major Issues

The wide ranging interview also touched on Kissinger's working relationship with the President. First, he said reports of a strain in their relationship during the last stages of the peace negotiations were unfounded. Then he provided a glimpse of how he and Nixon work together.

"The President, before I go out on a diplomatic mission, doesn't write down specific points that I am supposed to achieve... What the President does is to write down for himself, on a yellow sheet, four or five or six major issues, and the pros and cons of each issue."

"Then he will call me in, go over them and over them and if I have any ideas I will present them to him. But he talks much more in general terms of where we want to go, so that I clearly understand what he has in mind."

However, he would not discuss his role in last December's resumption of heavy bombing in North Vietnam, saying, "I have one absolute rule which is that I never discuss publicly what I recommend to the President."

Asked if his recent talks in China had led him to believe the Chinese might be willing to join in arms limitations talks, Kissinger replied:

"The Chinese problem is quite different from ours, and from that of other of the major powers. Their nuclear program is in its infancy and any of the limitations that are now being discussed between us and the Soviet Union occur at a level of nuclear armaments that is probably unimaginable for the Chinese."

He also said President Nixon will be spending more of his time and "taking a greater interest" in Middle Eastern affairs now.

Court Denies New Ruling On Abortion

By Gazette Leased Wires

WASHINGTON — The supreme court refused Monday to reconsider its controversial decision on abortion laws and directed lower federal courts to decide questions about nine state statutes in light of that ruling.

The Jan. 22 decision was interpreted as striking down most state anti-abortion laws.

It allowed abortion during the first three months of pregnancy at the decision of a woman and her doctor. States were allowed to regulate abortions after that point depending on the length of the pregnancy. But abortions were permitted at any stage if necessary to preserve a mother's health.

Citing those guidelines, the court Monday in separate actions returned cases to lower tribunals in Missouri, Illinois, North Carolina, Texas, Utah, Kentucky, South Dakota, Connecticut and Ohio.

The justices have been deluged with mail on the subject ever since Georgia and Texas asked for a re-hearing.

The court almost never grants a re-hearing after deciding a case by written opinion following full arguments. In the abortion cases, arguments were heard twice.

In other actions today, the court:

City To Ask New Study of Fourth Street

Public Safety Commissioner John Oberthien said Monday he plans to submit a resolution to the city council calling on railroads to re-study possible solutions of the Fourth street tracks problem.

In early January, the city's traffic department outlined a number of steps to increase safety on avenues crossing the Fourth street tracks.

"We have a condition that is certainly less than adequate," said Mel Meyer, city traffic engineer. "The railroads have engineers much more capable providing solutions than we."

"Documented Problem"

"We never intended," said Meyer, "that the city undertake to provide the answer. We did document the conditions."

The January report, a product of more than two years of study, urged as a first step that the city request all railroads operating on the Fourth street tracks to provide all crossings with "predictor" type equipment.

As Meyer explains it, "predictor" equipment would alert the motorist only when he needs cautioning. Meyer and Oberthien say the biggest danger is that many motorists fail to heed flashing signals.

The reason is, according to the Meyer report, that 40 percent of the times signals are activated at the five downtown

But Some Leeway Seen in Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration announced Monday it will retain its basic 5.5 percent guideline for pay increases, but indicated there will be leeway in the future for some wage boosts exceeding that level.

The administration agreed to use more flexible standards, judged by a panel of top business and labor leaders, to determine permissible pay boosts in specific cases.

Stocks Tumble

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices crumpled for the fourth straight trading session Monday under the pressure of investor worries about the dollar abroad and higher interest rates at home. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 10.39 points to 949.50, its low point for the year.

The advisory committee suggested that "responsible wage behavior" be used as a guide for wage increases while omitting reference to the 5.5 percent guideline.

The administration announcement was said to have been very carefully worded; indeed, it was discussed in bureaucratic language that made it seem almost contradictory.

No More Flexible

Despite the appearance of new flexibility, John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, said the 5.5 percent ceiling guideline would be maintained, and contended the new standard is no more flexible than during the days of wage and price controls.

Dunlop emphasized that even under mandatory controls, the 5.5 percent standard was not always strictly enforced.

The White House issued a statement by the Labor-Management Advisory Committee urging cooperation with the goals of the economic stabilization program this year so that the rate of inflation will decline to 2.5 percent or less by the end of the year.

Recommendation

The advisory committee's recommendation says:

"Considering the economy as a whole, responsible wage behavior requires continuing stabilization in the average rate of wage and benefit increase (total compensation) per man hour in 1973 compared to 1972 so as to be consistent with the goal set by the President of getting the rate of inflation down to 2.5 percent or less by the end of the year."

The move toward higher interest rates should act as a brake on the current economic expansion by making it more expensive for business to finance investments and consumers to purchase expensive goods on credit. It also could attract foreign-held dollars back to the United States and help diminish the dollar pool that has fueled the turmoil in world currency markets.

Senate Unit Ties Foreign Aid Measure to Impounding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate foreign relations committee voted Monday to condition continued foreign aid on release of impounded domestic program funds.

The committee approved a foreign military aid authorization bill for the current fiscal year with an amendment barring obligations after April 30 unless President Nixon, by then, has released some $1.5 billion in impounded funds for the departments of agriculture, transportation, Health-Education-Welfare and Housing and Urban Development.

The committee adopted the amendment, offered by Chairman J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) on a 9-7 straight party line vote, with Republicans voting against.

The committee's action still faces consideration by the full senate and the house, however.

The committee also added an amendment by Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) to bar any money for assistance to North Vietnam without specific authorization of congress, and for assistance to

The statement did not specifically refer to the 5.5 percent guideline. But Dunlop said it will be maintained, in the regulations.

Whether it will be retained in the application of those regulations remained to be seen. The announcement was less than clear on this point.

Committee on Food

In addition, the administration announced the establishment of a new committee to control wages in the food industry. It will be patterned after a similar committee in the construction industry with its members drawn from labor, management and the public.

The advisory committee, which includes AFL-CIO President George Meany and top leaders from the nation's top companies, said it would use its "good offices to create a climate favorable to the settlement of wage disputes."

Federal Reserve Raises Interest Rates to Banks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an effort to squeeze the supply of credit around the country and hold down inflation, the Federal Reserve Board Monday started charging its member banks 1/4 of 1 percent more to borrow funds.

The F.R.B.'s discount rate went from 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 percent. It is the second upward adjustment in five weeks and pushes the rate to its highest level in 15 months.

The discount rate is the interest the 12 federal reserve banks charge on loans to commercial banks. The prime rate is what commercial banks charge on short term loans to their best customers.

In New York, the Chase Manhattan bank Monday raised its prime rate to 6 1/4 percent from 6 percent. The committee on interest and dividends Friday approved a similar hike in the prime rate by Girard Trust bank of Philadelphia, and other commercial banks were expected to follow suit.

The move toward higher interest rates should act as a brake on the current economic expansion by making it more expensive for business to finance investments and consumers to purchase expensive goods on credit. It also could attract foreign-held dollars back to the United States and help diminish the dollar pool that has fueled the turmoil in world currency markets.

New Orleans Bank Seeks Total Automation

By Jerry Estill

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A New Orleans bank with a goal of being as totally automated as possible already handles all teller-customer transactions at two of its branches by closed-circuit television.

Although other banks use television, mostly for operating drive-in windows, International City bank says it is the first in the nation to have total-television installations and expects eventually to put all its tellers in front of cameras or replace them with automatic machines.

"We reached into the future, developed and put into practical application certain ideas which may be called as innovative, pioneering or just blind luck," says President Eads Poltevent.

"Our goal is to be as totally automated as we possibly can," he added.

The tellerless machines — linked to the bank's computer — would enable a customer to handle the most common banking transactions without any contact with a human. The customer would insert his coded card into the machine, punch in four identification numbers and make his deposit, withdrawal or whatever.

"These units can be placed in hotel lobbies, shopping centers and, to be absurd, even street corners," said Poltevent in a recent speech. "Anywhere there are people."

Ray Samuel, senior vice-president in charge of marketing, said in an interview that International City thinks of itself as a "swinging" bank. But he insists that the commitment to machines is not gimmicky, rather sound banking philosophy.

And International City's drive toward automation has drawn widespread attention from other bankers — some from New Zealand, Lebanon, South Africa and Hong Kong.

"People from all over the world come to look at this," Samuel said, adding that the visits by curious bankers take a large part of his time.

As in other banks, International City's two-way, closed-circuit television system is coupled with pneumatic tubes for moving money and documents between teller and customer. What sets the New Orleans bank apart is the use of the system to replace the traditional walk-up windows in its lobbies.

In a typical installation, a customer with routine business walks to a panel with a 12-inch television screen, a speaker, a button to summon the teller and a hatch to the pneumatic tube. A telephone is provided in case the customer wants a private conversation with the teller, who is in a sealed, vault-like room and may be handling two or three "windows."

Each total-television branch bank still has a manager, an assistant manager and one or two other persons in the lobby to help with new accounts or other transactions not normally handled by a teller.

Five-Week-Old Strike at Nissen Corp. Is Ended

Sheet Metal union workers at the Nissen Corp. in Cedar Rapids returned to work Monday, ending a five-week strike that had centered on the company's subcontracting of work to other firms.
The 176 union members ratified the new contract Sunday, ending the first strike in Nissen history.
The new two-year contract says the company has the right to subcontract work, but includes a formula outlining the limits for employee layoffs as a result of subcontracting. There also is additional company flexibility regarding supervisory work.
A 5.5 percent wage boost is provided in the new contract, plus other minor fringe improvements.
Set aside a ruling in California that uninsured motorists involved in accidents were entitled to a hearing before their drivers' licenses could be suspended.
Refused to consider a claim by four suburban Detroit school districts that they should be exempt from a broad busing program unless a finding is made against them that they are practicing school segregation.
Refused to order bail set for the two leaders of the Philadelphia teachers' strike, Frank Sullivan, president of the Teachers Union, and John Ryan, its chief negotiator, are being held in jail part time on contempt of court action for failing to end the strike.

Eight Breakins In Buchanan; Nab C.R. Man

INDEPENDENCE — Larceny in the nighttime has been charged against a Cedar Rapids man, Phillip Bedell, 29, in connection with eight Buchanan county breakins Sunday night and early Monday.
His capture took place at Winthrop after an alarm system in the Tenth Inning tavern alerted the police chief, Carl Kress, and the tavern owner, Dickson Madison.
By the time Kress and Madison reached the tavern, the intruder had left, but they caught Bedell as he was leaving Helle's Cafe next door.
Bedell was taken to the Buchanan county jail.
The six other breakins in which he was implicated were at Bob's DX station in Quasqueton; Stout's lumber yard, Krob's elevator and Boelter's Appliance at Rowley; Great Plains Supply Co., and Winthrop elevator, both at Winthrop.
Nearly $200 was missing from the DX station. Other businesses reported small losses of from $2 to $5.

Search

There is some question how the jacket would have come off the boy, he has been told by a former navy frogman that it is not only possible, but even probable.
Jacket Zipped
Deputies said the jacket was zipped at the bottom. They said it appeared the log on which it was snagged had been under water at the time of the boy's disappearance, and that it came into view as the river level receded.
Four deputies with two boats began searching the area along the river bank Sunday afternoon, after the call was received from Comp about 1 p.m.
Griffin said a similar wreck was on duty again Monday, making mostly a surface search but also doing a little probing. He said more intensive probing would not be possible because of the danger from ice chunks floating down the river.
A Civil Air Patrol plane was called in Sunday, and a helicopter was to join the search Monday.

Shultz praised the statement of cooperation from the committee, noting that its attitude should be helpful in reducing the grave inflation this year.
The committee also said that responsible wage behavior this year would require strong measures to cut back food prices and to step up food supplies.
It also said that it requires control of the federal budget as well.

Federal Prisoner Escapes Briefly From Linn Jail

Leonard J. Stakenburg, who is serving a 25-year federal prison sentence for kidnapping, escaped from Linn county jail about 11:30 a.m. Monday but was captured about three minutes later.
Stakenburg, 26, of Storm Lake, was brought from the Leavenworth, Kan., penitentiary to the county jail last Wednesday to appear in Jones county district court on a charge of escaping from the reformatory at Anamosa shortly before the kidnapping occurred.
Stakenburg, who was about to be transported back to Leavenworth, escaped Monday after he was taken out of his cell to telephone relatives in California.
Dashed Out
He dashed out of the kitchen and out the back door while supposedly making the phone call. Two deputies gave chase after another prisoner reported seeing Stakenburg leaving.
Deputies said they chased him to Second avenue bridge, where a Cedar Rapids policeman joined the chase. The policeman caught Stakenburg as he headed east toward the federal building.
Stakenburg originally was given a life sentence last May after pleading guilty to forcibly taking Mary Kay Noonan from Dubuque to Brentwood, Mo., near St. Louis. The incident occurred Feb. 15, 1972.

Term Reduced

Under provisions of the sentence, he was given a psychiatric examination and reported back to the court. At that time, in September, the sentence was reduced to 25 years.
No information was available on his appearance in Jones county on the Anamosa escape charge.

IPERS Retirement Age Bill Is Passed

DES MOINES (AP) — Public employers could legally require their employees to retire at age 65 under a bill passed 29-15 by the Iowa senate and sent to the governor Monday.
In the past, many state and local departments have required their employees to retire at age 65, but Atty. Gen. Richard Turner issued an opinion Jan. 8 which said there was no legal authority to do so.
The bill would allow employers whose employees are covered under the Iowa Public Employees Retirement Fund to require the retirement.

crossings, the warning is false in that the train does not block vehicular traffic.
Yearly Cost
It was estimated that the tracks at the five main avenues cost motorists $265,000 a year in delay (time wasted). This same cost for First avenue alone is $160,000.
If the railroads do not take action to improve the tracks situation, the traffic engineering department recommended legal action.
Ultimately, Meyer's report said, a solution should be found for elimination of the Fourth street tracks. The action Oberlin expects to be taken Wednesday would be a first step in requesting the railroads to study the problem.

Sideswipe Mishap

INDEPENDENCE — Ricky Wendling, 15, of Hazelton faces a charge of failure of yield half the road as the result of a Saturday afternoon accident north of Independence on highway 150. His car sideswiped one driven by Eva Snyder, 53, of rural Independence. She was treated for neck and head injuries then released from Peoples hospital.
