Massouris Case Into Fourth Year

Police File Grows On Baffling Murder

The police search for the slayer of George Massouris grinds into its fourth year this week. Massouris, 30, was found in a ditch on a Sunday morning, Nov. 19, 1950. He was neatly clad in blue jeans, Army shirt and a heavy button-down sweater. There was no sign of a struggle but there were three bullet holes at the base of his skull caused by a .22 caliber automatic pistol. Massouris was married, had three children and a good job in the Union Pacific Railroad shops. He worked part-time driving a taxi. His taxi was found abandoned that same Sunday morning on Tenth Ave. between Seventh and Eighth streets, about an hour before Massouris' body was found. Bad Break That's where police got a bad break. The taxi was put back into service immediately. Several passengers rode in it before news of his death was reported. Any chance of clues in the form of latent fingerprints on the door handles or steering wheel were gone. Police believe the motive was robbery. Massouris' billfold containing $8 or $9 was missing. There is a file a foot thick at the police station of typewritten transcripts of interviews with dozens of people questioned in connection with the slaying. Lacking is the rubber stamp "case closed."

Another Unsolved Case

It is not the only unsolved murder on police files. The murder of Henry Christensen, 58, on June 21, 1941, was never solved. Christensen was found dead behind his car in the garage at his home at 1735 Grand Ave. There were two bullet holes in his chest and a third through his temple, fired from a rusty 32-20 caliber revolver found at the scene. One woman was later tried and acquitted of a murder charge. But this case, too, remains as it was—unsolved.

Most Of Jacobsen's Railroad Life Spent In Rival's Yard

Walter Battenfield, 63, Des Moines, Dies

Neils C. Jacobsen, 65, of 828 Avenue B, recently retired after a rather unusual career with the Milwaukee railroad. It was unusual because as a car inspector on the interchange system he spent 31 of his 35 years of railroading in the yards of a rival rail line. And all this time was on the night shift, 4 p.m. to 11 p.m. All the rail lines here supply one car inspector at the Union Pacific terminal interchange tracks. And each railroad has one track where cars arriving from the West via UP are transferred to the individual eastern lines. "Yes," Jacobsen says. "I felt I knew my UP boys better than those of my own line—except for a few oldtimers with Milwaukee who were there when I started there in 1918 on the repair track."

As to 31 years of night work, Jacobsen didn't seem to mind. "I could do a lot of work here around the house during the day and help my wife. Besides Mrs. Jacobsen was always busy with the children and couldn't plan anything of an outing at night—even if I were home," he said. Mrs. Jacobsen agrees. A native of Denmark, Jacobsen came to the United States in 1902. After two years in Wisconsin he came to Council Bluffs and worked for a short time in the Chicago and North Western yards. He moved West into Nebraska and tried farming for three years. But drought "burned us out three

To Start Hearings On Alleged Spying

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 14.—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Saturday his subcommittee will start public hearings "as soon as possible" on alleged spying at the Ft. Monmouth, N. J., radar laboratory. "I read papers today which have quoted Secretary of the Army Stevens as saying his committee found no evidence of espionage at Ft. Monmouth," McCarthy said. "This makes it necessary to open public hearings almost immediately. I am contacting my chief counsel to open the files for public hearings as soon as possible."

Offer Information In 52 Vocations

CLARINDA — Information on 51 vocations will be offered when Southwest Iowa high school students meet here for a Career Day. Neil Rippe, high school principal who is in charge, announced Saturday that there will be 20 vocational leaders on hand for the day. Speaker at the opening assembly will be Dr. Ray Bryan, head of vocational education at Iowa State College, Ames. Four workshops are planned during the day. Iowa State is sending eight speakers. They include: Leonard Eggleton, Mierl Wiener, Leonard Wolf, Frank Kerekes, Jeannette Navin, Harriet Roberts, L. F. Kellogg, Chuck Sherwood. From Iowa University will come William Grover, John McAdams, Harold E. Shiffler. Representatives of various branches of the armed services will also be on hand. Rippe said. Loren Miller of the State Sheriff's association and a member of State Highway Patrol will be present as well as representatives of several businesses. About 300 students are expected.

Lands To Open Poultry House

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Land, former operators of a steak house on Route 4, are planning to open a new business at 3100 Manawa Road next week, they said Saturday. It will be known as Land's Poultry House. They will offer chickens and turkeys. A seam of coal of unlimited scope is located within 200 miles of the South Pole, according to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

These men will serve until the next annual stockholders meeting at which time directors will be elected to serve for terms of one, two and three years. The association will continue to office at Red Oak with a branch at Corning.

Set Cass Hearing, Speech Survey

Special to The Nonpareil ATLANTIC — A survey of speech and hearing difficulties among students is planned in four Cass County towns this week under the direction of Ralph Morrow, county superintendent. Checks will be made at schools in Atlantic, Cumberland, Anita and Griswold for both rural and town pupils. Morrow will be assisted by Virginia Epperly, director of special education in Cass, Adams and Adair Counties; Shirley Carter, speech correctionist for the three counties; and Agnes Ravenholt, speech and hearing consultant with the division of special education, State Department of Public Instruction. The hearing checks are made in grades three, six and nine and the speech survey in third grades. Checks are also given other children whose teachers feel they are in need of speech or hearing aid. At the present, approximately 40 Cass County students are being served in speech correction at Atlantic and Cumberland speech centers, Morrow said.

Stubblefield To Retire Dec. 1

Special to The Nonpareil AUDUBON — E. B. Stubblefield, an employee of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company for nearly 40 years and district manager here for the past quarter century, will retire Dec. 1. Stubblefield was honored at a dinner of telephone company employees Friday evening. He joined the company as a lineman and spent seven years in similar work at Creston and Carlisle. Later he entered the administrative end of the business and 25 years ago came here as district manager of the Audubon and Exira exchanges. Mr. and Mrs. Stubblefield, who lived in Audubon most of their married lives, expect to remain here. Stubblefield probably will enter some kind of private business, he says. They have plans for taking a short trip. No successor has been named yet for Stubblefield.

Kiwanis Trustees Open District Meet

The Kiwanis Club will be host to the District Trustees meeting of the Nebraska-Iowa District opening Sunday at Hotel Chieftain. District Gov. Wes Bartlett of Algona will be the principal speaker at the two-day meeting. Governor-Elect Vern Rice of Grand Island and all of his lieutenant governors will be guests at the Monday meeting. Rice will take office Dec. 31. Election of Everett N. Wright, 402 Oakland Ave., as secretary of the local club was announced Saturday. This is his thirty-first year as secretary.

Minnesota Youth Admits Slayings

FLOODWOOD, Minn., Nov. 14.—A 17-year-old youth drove into this northern Minnesota community early Saturday and confessed to the village marshal he had shot and killed the couple who had given him a home for the last five years and a boy who also shared the home. Slain with a 30-30 rifle were George Snyder, 61, his wife, 58, and Richard Demars, 18, a ward of the state who lived with the Snyders. The Demars boy had recently recovered from polio. Village Marshal Francis T. Hokkanen said the youth drove nine miles to the home of the Snyders' son, Leonard, and told them what he had done. Hokkanen took him to the village jail, where he immediately fell into a deep sleep. The marshal said he had been unable to learn what may have prompted the shootings. The boy later was taken in custody by Sheriff Sam Owens and moved to the county jail in Duluth.

'Corn For Polio' Operation Ending

CLEAR LAKE, Nov. 14.—Operation "Corn for Polio" was near completion Saturday morning with just 178 bushels needed to reach the goal of 2,100 bushels by the midnight deadline. The operation, which started Oct. 26, with the object of filling three 700-bushel corn cribs in three weeks, was sponsored by the Clear Lake Chamber of Commerce. All profits are to go to the polio drive. After one week the first crib was filled. The second one took until Nov. 10 to be filled but corn came in steadily the rest of this week and officials of the operation were confident the third crib would be filled by the deadline at midnight Saturday. Most of the corn was donated by farmers in the Clear Lake and Mason City areas. More than 550 families participated in the operation.
