Consolidated to Open Terminal

By LYLE PIGGOTT
Courier Staff Writer

Consolidated Freightways, one of the nation's leading common carrier trucking companies opens a terminal here Monday at 1204 Sheffield St.

"From this installation CP will provide pickup and delivery service to customers throughout the Waterloo area, and to points as far away as Cedar Falls, Washburn, and Independence," said Lou Krause, the company's local manager.

"Opening this terminal reflects our company's confidence in Waterloo's continuing growth as an important center of industry and commerce," said Krause. The company had previously served the Waterloo area from its facility in Cedar Rapids, he pointed out.

Krause, 49, comes here from Rock Island, Ill., where he was freight operations manager of CF's terminal there.

A native of Gillett, Wis., he completed high school there and later graduated from Chicago's College of Advanced Traffic.

After 18 years in the industrial traffic field, Krause joined Consolidated Freightways in 1967 as a dispatcher-dock foreman at Rock Island. He was promoted to freight operations manager in 1970.

Consolidated Freightways serves 41 states, coast to coast, including Alaska, as well as eastern and western Canada.

'Hello Dolly!' Smash Hit Here

By BARB LOUNSBERRY
WATERLOO

A standing ovation greeted the happy, energetic opening night performance of "Hello Dolly!" Friday at the Waterloo Community Playhouse.

The musical, which ran on Broadway for seven years featuring such diverse "Dollies" as Carol Channing, Pearl Bailey and Phyllis Diller, tells the story of the warm-hearted, audacious matchmaker Dolly Levi and her efforts to make matches for everyone—including herself.

The show was adapted from American playwright Thornton Wilder's play "The Matchmaker" which he, in turn, had adapted from one of his earlier plays "The Merchant of Yonkers." For a better ending to the plot, I'd recommend either of the play versions, but "Hello Dolly!" has much to offer in its own way.

Mrs. Winfield Dazzles

Collette Winfield is triumphant in the title role of Dolly Levi. I would guess that her Dolly is most like Carol Channing's—without the wide eyes. Like Miss Channing, Mrs. Winfield's voice is not great, but she acts with such skill and authority that it doesn't need to be.

Mrs. Winfield's stage presence is so overwhelming, each gesture and change in voice so masterful, that whether speaking or singing her songs, she had the audience in the palm of her hand. I was particularly moved by her singing of "Before The Parade Passes By" and it seemed to me that the chorus of male waiters in the "Hello Dolly" number adored her as much as the audience did.

Supporting Collette Winfield was a talented 47-member ensemble, two-thirds of whom were making their debut with the Waterloo Community Playhouse. Dr. George Day was suitably handsome and gruff as the well-known half-a-millionaire Horace Vandergelder whom Dolly sets out to win and tame.

Engaging Duo

His two hay and feed store clerks, played by tall Steve Hollingsworth and short Clark Goltz, made an engaging duo. Hollingsworth, who has a fine voice and Mark Spitz eyes was especially fine in his number "Put On Your Sunday Clothes" and at times Goltz threatened to steal the show away from Dolly with his hilarious stage business.

Equally engaging were Marguerite Phelps as the darling hat shop assistant Minnie Fay and Shirley Bassett as Irene Malloy. Nancy Youngblut turned in a delightfully idiosyncratic comedy performance as Ernestina Simple, a lady of dubious virtue.

Supporting these actors was a chorus and dance line which doubled as townspeople and fast-moving waiters. The rich, full sound produced by this group, whose ages I estimate ranged from 16 to 66, was simply amazing.

Les Hale directed this chorus and all the musical numbers in "Hello Dolly" along with playing bass in the fine pit orchestra. Other orchestra members included pianist Genevieve Anderson, organist Father Paul Peters, and David Hale on drums. Choreography was designed by Linda Crist, the set by John Sailer, and the authentic 1890's costumes by Patricia Stilwell.

'Lighthearted'

"Hello Dolly" is a lighthearted, extremely funny musical which nevertheless has a message. The message is not to sit on the shelf—or on your cash box—but to plunge into the "adventure" of life. This lively Waterloo Community Playhouse cast simply exudes this message.

"Hello Dolly" will run through July 28 except for Mondays. A note in the theater program states that the Playhouse is in need of World War I uniforms and other clothing from that era for its fall production of "Jabberwock." So if you're cleaning your attic, why not drop off any finds when you see "Hello Dolly."

Injured in Car-Cycle Collision

A 24-year-old Waterloo man was listed in fair condition yesterday in St. Francis Hospital with injuries sustained in a car-cycle accident on Highways 63 Friday evening.

Arthur Brown, of 107 Walnut St., Hudson, sustained a sprained back and neck as well as lacerations when the motorcycle he was driving was struck by an auto driven by John Maun, 61, of 920 Grand Blvd., Evansdale.

According to reports, Maun was stopped at a stop sign at the intersection of Highway 63 and Ridgeway Avenue when he pulled into the intersection apparently not seeing Brown who was headed south on the highway.

Maun was cited for failure to yield.

EVEN THE SCHOOL OF HARD KNOCKS HAS GONE LEGIT

Maybe you didn't finish high school but you know you're as bright as some of those smart alec kids who have their diploma. Well, if you live anywhere in Merged Area VII you can prove it by paying $10.00 and completing a multiple-choice exam.

The Hawkeye Institute of Technology offers the General Educational Development Test, recognizing that many adults who didn't finish high school may have acquired, through the "School of Hard Knocks," an educational maturity at or above the high school level.

You're eligible if you are 19 and have been out of school at least one academic year. The Equivalency Certificate is recognized by Iowa businesses, industry, and educational institutions. This past year, 3,292 Iowa adults earned High School Equivalency Certificates.

IF YOU'RE SO SMART, TRY THESE TWO SAMPLE QUESTIONS:

- From past experience a farmer knows his present supply of hay will feed his herd of 10 cows for 60 days. If he enlarges his herd to 15 cows, how long will his hay supply last?

(1) 25 days	(3) 35 days	(5) None of these
(2) 30 days	(4) 40 days
- Find the misspelled word if there is one: (1) sophmore (2) session (3) serenity (4) significant (5) none misspelled.
