RICHARD RAINES AT AMES THIS WEEK Ames, Iowa, Jan. 9.—Students at Iowa State College will commemorate the observance of their annual Religious Emphasis Week. From today until Saturday student and faculty groups will devote special attention to discussion of religion and a "broader philosophy of life." Dr. Richard C. Raines, pastor of the Hennepin Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of Minneapolis, will be the main speaker during the week. He will address an all-college convocation Thursday morning and other meetings, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. He will also speak before the faculty Thursday noon. Plans for the week's observances are being made by the student Y. W. and Y. M. C. A., with Ella Gertrude McMullen of Welch and Homer King of Des Moines as co-chairmen. This is an interesting item as the parents of Dr. Raines live at Independence and his wife's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Arnold, formerly living in Oelwein, but now on a farm near Arlington. —Try the Want-Ad Column if you want results

FUNERAL OF MRS. HELM The funeral of Mrs. John Helm will be held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Brant funeral home, the sermon by Rev. Ackman. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery. (Continued from Page One.) tion of the unconstitutional legislative expense act, all are potential trouble makers; and perhaps most vital is a proposed complete reorganization of the state departments under a plan which will be submitted a month hence by Governor-elect Clyde L. Herring. The house of representatives is ready to roll up its sleeves and go to work. All of its proposals were framed out at the democratic caucus Saturday. The democrats will elect George E. Miller of Hartburg speaker of the house as a mere formality, complete their organization without argument, and tackle proposed legislation. There are only 32 republicans in the lower house to oppose 76 democrats. The senate is more in doubt. There may be a fight from the outset over control, although the democratic party now believes it will gain sufficient support from several republicans to swing the organization of the upper chamber its way. As now divided there are 25 republicans, 25 democrats, with two of these seats in contest. Over the week-end republicans decided they would not oppose appointment of senate committees by Lieutenant Governor N. G. Kraschel, but they did not relinquish their patronage rights. Both houses must decide whether or not seats will be granted temporarily to men elected but not certified due to protests by their opponents in the November, 1932, election. In the house election of L. D. Teter of Marion county is opposed by John W. Adair, democrat, and election of Lewis Horvie in West county is contested by P. L. D. Ostby, democrat. In the senate T. E. Moen, former senator from the Lyon-Stones-Cook-O'Brien district, defeated in the republican primary, nominated by the democrats only to be defeated again by republican Garrit E. Rooflofs—is contesting Rooflofs' seating. Warren A. Caldwell, republican, is contesting the seating of L. T. Shangle from Mahaska county. Des Moines, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Byron G. Allen, former republican representative in the Iowa legislature from Pechonias county, was the democratic candidate for secretary of the senate today. In the recent election, Allen managed the unsuccessful campaign of Sam Smith W. Bockhart, and later served as Brookhart's secretary in Washington. Allen's name headed a patronage list announced by the democrats yesterday. No nominations were made by them for assistant secretary of the senate, and for sergeant at arms. Many New Cases Of Flu In Iowa Des Moines, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Iowa's influenza epidemic was recognized officially today when a bulletin issued by the state department of health indicated 4,011 new cases last week in the state. There were 29 new cases of smallpox, 50 of chickenpox, 25 or scarlet fever and 18 of diphtheria. If parents of small children would make a new year's resolution to give each baby an immunity against diphtheria and smallpox before it reaches its first birthday, only a few years would lapse before these diseases would be practically wiped out in Iowa, according to the department. Typhoid fever and smallpox both may be entirely prevented by immunization practices, the health department said. Both diseases seem to be on the increase in Iowa today. Many Atlantic coast cities require smallpox vaccination for admission to school, the health department said. Proof that such policies pay was cited in the case of four million persons, only one case of smallpox was reported in 1931. EFFORTS TO SAVE BUCK PAUL Ashland, Ore.—(UP)—Heroic efforts of city employees to save the life of a fine four-point blacktail buck after the animal had become frozen in the city reservoir failed. The buck, evidently coming from a warmer climate, was found early of a morning frozen solid in ice which covered the water supply. Some Bright Spots In Business New York, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Bank clearings in New York City for the five days ended Jan. 7 amounted to $3,156,881,100, against $2,632,152,317 in the five days ended Dec. 31, 1932. Cleveland—Steel operations throughout the country during the past week expanded to 15 to 16 per cent of capacity against 14 per cent a week ago, the magazine "Steel" said. East Pittsburgh, Pa.—Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. received a $150,000 order for motors and control apparatus for a large sheet steel manufacturer. Philadelphia—Revenue freight loadings on the Reading railroad during December totaled 108,161 cars, against 106,169 cars in November. Sharpesville, Pa.—Shenango Fur and Co. will recall 100 men when the local plant reopens tomorrow, it was announced.

Open Session Of Legislature In Iowa Today (Continued from Page One.) While the treasury is far in the red in most of its accounts, it has $30,000,000 piled up in one fund. This is the federal employees' retirement fund, which has been built up gradually through deductions of a few dollars from their pay each month. The money has been idle ever since the fund was started—except that when an employee retires, he of course begins to receive monthly payments from it. Several proposals have been advanced recently to put the idle balance to constructive work. One plan is to lend some of the money to non-profit corporations which would be formed by federal workers to construct reasonably-priced homes and apartments. Others suggested that government workers feeling the pinch of pay cuts and layoffs should be permitted to borrow from the fund. Many opposed this, fearing the borrowers never would repay the money and hence would have no retirement money for their old age. Washington, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The department of commerce's literary output last year brought in more money to the government than that of all the other federal departments combined. According to the report of the public printer, $700,000 worth of commerce department publications were sold last year. The total for all the other departments was $575,466. In addition to periodic reports in every conceivable type of business, the commerce department has a variety of material which brings out many pamphlets among the general public. For instance, it has sold hundreds of thousands of copies of two recent booklets on what to look for and how to get your money's worth when you buy furniture or a house. These were sponsored by the national wood utilities committee, which is associated with the commerce department. There is an ironic item in the senate economy committee's new program of proposed government-aided savings. The committee would abolish the bureau of efficiency, which several times has been called on by congress to help figure out economies. The bureau was established in 1916. Its chief, Herbert D. Brown is a protégé of Senator Smoot, republican. Don't Quote Me Washington, Jan. 9.—(UP)—At least one member of the Hoover administration is in the good graces of President-Elect Roosevelt. Charles E. Hooper, messenger of the Undersecretary of State, is proudly displaying a Christmas card from Mr. Roosevelt. The card is a beautiful engraving of the Roosevelt home at Hyde Park. "Charlie" is well known to several generations of office-holders. He has been in the government service since Theodore Roosevelt's administration, during which he was a White House concierge. He is next in line in the state department messenger service to Edward Augustine Savoy, the aged negro who bows diplomats in and out of Secretary Stimson's office. WIGGIN SEES WORLD HOPE Retiring Head of World's Largest Bank Says Economic Recovery Is in Motion. New York, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Albert H. Wiggin, head of the world's largest bank and powerful figure in international finance, today looked into the future and saw the process of world economic recovery in motion. Wiggin, viewing industry, trade, and finance from the height of his position as chairman of the executive committee of the Chase National Bank, saw the spirit of panic entirely dispelled. "We are passing from the period of emergency credit devices—reconstruction finance corporation, mercantile, standstills, and the like, into a period where the basis of credit can be restored by opening markets, starting the movement of goods, balancing budgets, and giving the farmers good prices by restoring their export market," he said. Wiggin's views were part of his farewell message to the Chase stockholders when he retires from active charge Tuesday. He plans to devote much time to international banking. His opinions were based more or less defensible things than an extensive business recovery. He felt business had recovered somewhat. "Financial confidence is greatly improved," he said. "For the first time in three years we had, in the autumn of 1932, a better-than-secular improvement in business. Although conditions remain very depressed, and political difficulties national and international are numerous, there is new hope in the world." Garner Speaker At Rally Tonight Des Moines, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Bearing with him a national reputation for successful consolidation of state departments and economy in state government, O. Max Gardner, former governor of North Carolina, was in Des Moines today for a democratic rally tonight. Governor Gardner will be the principal speaker and will tell of the experiences of North Carolina in elimination of waste in government. "In the matter of public schools we have eliminated the property tax and have substituted Franchise and income taxes," Gardner said in discussing the North Carolina plan. All three state schools, corresponding to Iowa's university, State colleges and State Teachers' college are under one president in North Carolina, the former governor said. Other speakers at the "Victory" dinner will be Charles D. Huston, Cedar Rapids, state democratic committeeman; Sen. Louis Murphy, Dybuque; and Gov. Clyde Herring. —Try the Want-Ad Column if you want results. GLASSES FITTED At a price you like to pay. Prices to meet the times. Dr. A. H. Berger, Opt. 4 1/2 West Charles St.
